

Whew! That was a close one!

A car driven by a Lawrence woman hit a gas pump and set it afire on Friday afternoon in North Wilmington. Station proprietor (and selectman) Robert Doucette is shown speaking to a fireman after the fire.

Close call as car hits gas pump

It was a close call, but the safety systems worked. A car hit a gas pump at North Wilmington Shell on Friday afternoon. The pump caught fire, but it did not spread. The accident occurred about 4 p.m. during a snowstorm. Diane Brosley, 25, of Jackson Street, Lawrence, driving a 1976 Mercury Monarch, swerved when the car in front of her stopped. Her car skidded, and hit the pump.

The impact knocked the pump over, setting fire to it. The automatic suppression system activated, spraying the area with halon. When the system ran out, though, the pump re-ignited. The fire did not spread to any of the station's tanks, due to safety valves. Firefighters quickly arrived on the scene and extinguished the blazing pump.

There were no injuries. Brosley was charged with driving an uninsured motor vehicle.

The station reopened later that evening after the extinguisher system had been recharged. The pump was replaced on Tuesday.

Friday night auction to benefit Kidsplace

The Kidsplace Committee is sponsoring its largest fundraiser to date. This Friday evening, March 11, a lively auction will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall behind St. Thomas' Church to help raise funds for a creative playground for Wilmington children. The public is encouraged to join friends and neighbors in bidding for items large and small.

The doors will open at 7 p.m. to give residents a chance to view the items and participate in a silent auction. The actual auction will run from 8 p.m. until midnight.

Some of the more intriguing items up for bid are a moonlight champagne cruise, a trip to New York City, a white-water rafting trip, and a principal for a day. There are also sports articles, tickets to see the Bruins, a week at hockey camp, home and service items, and gift certificates to restaurants and area stores.

The highlight of the evening will be a $1,000 gift certificate for use at Dinette World. All items have been generously donated by local businesses and individuals.

There is a small entrance fee of $2. Each attendee will be given an Auction Catalogue with descriptions of each item, value, and donor's name; and a chance to enjoy cheese, crackers, dessert, and coffee provided by the Kidsplace Committee.

Wilmington voters go for Dukakis and Bush

by Arlene Surprenant
Thirty one percent or 2,949 eligible voters in Wilmington went to the polls Tuesday to throw their support behind leading presidential contenders Michael Dukakis and George Bush.

The Massachusetts governor took 55 percent of the Democratic vote with a total of 1,209 votes. In a surprise second place finish, Rev. Jesse Jackson garnered 379 votes while Richard Gephardt captured 310 votes in a close third. Stephen O'Leary and Shirley Raynard captured spots on the State Democratic Committee.

Vice-President George Bush led the Republican pack with 448 votes or 59 percent of the Republican vote. Bob Dole trailed with 182 votes and Jack Kemp came in third with 77 votes. Bradley Jones Jr. and Nancy Luther copped places in the State Republican Committee.

In an aggressive write-in campaign, 35 residents were elected to the Town Democratic Committee. Sixteen residents were elected to the Town Republican Committee. Both committees had missed the deadline to place names on the ballot and had to rely on a sticker campaign.

Task force narrows housing site

by Arlene Surprenant
The Wilmington Affordable Housing Task Force last Thursday stopped short of selecting a site for their first affordable housing project.

The consensus seemed to be to start on a small scale. Many went along with a suggestion to use the 10.25 acre Whitefield School site. Members felt a project there under one of the state programs could be done in two phases, utilizing both the vacant land surrounding the school and the historic building itself. Alot, they said, would depend on moving the Public Buildings Department currently in residence to another location and seeing what turns up during a proposed site walk.

At their meeting, members and their consultants reviewed a total of four town-owned sites which could conceivably be used for lower cost homes. Those parcels were the Whitefield School site, a 90-acre site on Salem Street originally taken for the high school, a 10-acre site off Wildwood Street currently used as a pedway by school children, and a 37-acre site off Main Street near the old town dump.

All sites, explained COG consultant Lynn Leab, are "buildable to varying degrees." Some, however, would reportedly be more costly to develop than others. Leab called the Whitefield School site "exciting" and felt the Salem Street site was "a piece of property worth exploring." Some of the sites, said Leab, include a substantial amount of wetlands, two were taken by eminent domain for other purposes, and one site would require a study for hazardous materials.

Consultant Rusty Rhodes told the task force "you want to pick a site you can move on (quickly)" but, at the same time, he added members shouldn't proceed "exclusively" on one parcel.

During the discussion, density became an issue. Jay Tighe tried to establish a set density for town supported projects, possibly the same density as used in HOP guidelines. Chairman Jim Stewart rejected the idea, saying density may vary according to site location. He added if they went along with a high density, local developers might feel they have the same right. Vaughn Surprenant said any project they support should be an example for developers and not a "mass project." It was felt density could be addressed through developer's kits, which would provide guidelines on such things as housing styles, bedroom mix, percentage of affordability, and project type.

Ray Forest asked how the affordable homes would be taxed claiming "you can't just deal with the housing side of this." Members were unsure if the homes would be taxed at fair market value. Since the HOP program is so new, they said, a tax policy may not have been established yet.

Tighe suggested any project they bring before the town have the united support of Wilmington selectmen, housing authority members, and the state representative. He warned the whole issue could become "unbelievably political."

"It already has," said Stewart, adding, however, "the people will have the final say."

remains unresolved

by Arlene Surprenant

After a three hour session ordered by a U.S. District Court judge, the town of Wilmington and the owner of a 40-acre parcel off Rte. 125 are no closer to resolving three main issues in a $10 million litigation case.

The lawsuit was brought by Joyce Corey, trustee of the Sunshine Investment Trust, in early 1986. Her husband Robert bought the land in question in the 1960's and is also involved with the trust.

The suit charges that the town prevented Corey from developing his property across from Ballardvale Street, largely by causing flooding problems with the reconstruction of Ballardvale Street and by refusing to allow him to connect to the town sewer.

Corey's attorney Kenneth Gilman claimed in a recent letter to town attorney Douglas Randall that "the town's conduct has nearly destroyed my client's financial position for which we are seeking compensatory damages." The antagonism between both parties, said Gilman, dates back 28 years.

On February 9, Judge Wolf ordered the two sides to meet and "explore the possibility" of settling the case out of court. If no settlement could be reached, Wolf said, both parties should prepare to go to trial.

The meeting took place on Tuesday with the town represented by several department heads, town counsel, attorney Randall, and the town manager, and Corey represented by her attorney and an environmental engineer.

According to Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, discussion centered on three of the main issues: lack of sewer, a wetlands violation, and acceptance of Ainsworth Road for the Street Betterment Program. Ainsworth Road is the only access to the property, which years ago was excavated for gravel and, under Corey's ownership, was the site of a building demolition business.

Though Stapczynski told the Town Crier he felt some progress had been made in that both sides were able to "stake out their positions," he said it's obvious that "these aren't issues that can be instantly resolved." One or two of them involve policy decisions and board votes, Stapczynski said, and the street acceptance requires a town meeting vote.

"Our intent," added Stapczynski, "is to work as far as we can without compromising the town's position."

It is expected Wilmington selectmen will discuss the issue and be given an update on what transpired at an executive session next Tuesday.

Teachers agree to reopen negotiations

by Arlene Surprenant

Wilmington teachers last week backed a plan by the Wilmington School Committee to re-open negotiations on their contract before the current three year contract runs out. Reportedly, there is another year and a half to go.

In a letter dated March 1, WTA President Rick Barry wrote, "the Wilmington Teachers Association eagerly accepts the school committee's offer to re-open negotiations." He added, however, that teachers expect to include a limited number of language items along with salary discussion. The committee's offer was only to discuss salary options at the bargaining table.

School committee Chairman Tony Accardi told the Town Crier last Friday he didn't feel his committee would object. In fact, he said, members had "anticipated" there might be a request to discuss two or three important items which had to be agreed to by both sides.

The radical move to open negotiations early was seen as a way to provide "long term educational stability" within the system and a way to sidestep the confrontations of the previous year. According to Accardi, the move will force both sides to focus on major issues at the bargaining table instead of "starting from scratch." In effect, it will now be possible to extend the contract for a five year period.

Accardi said it was his understanding that Wilmington is the only community in the state to take this action. He predicted other towns may soon follow suit.

"It looks good; I'm very excited about this. And I applaud the teachers for being willing to meet with us," added Accardi.

Once both sides agree to the guidelines to be used in the negotiation process, it is expected a new contract could be drawn up before the end of school in June.

Radon Test Kits still available

Radon kits to test residents' homes for the toxic gas are still available through the Wilmington Board of Health. The kits provide two tests and sell for $15. Wilmington citizens can purchase them at the health office at Town Hall through the end of March.

To date, 54 kits have been sold. According to Health Director Greg Erickson, over 900 kits were ordered for the six towns involved in this pilot program. The six towns are Chelmsford, Tewksbury, Andover, Reading, Wakefield, and Wilmington.

piano

Domenic and Joan Tutela have gone from playing "The Price is Right" to playing the piano. The baby grand was delivered to their home last week.

The price was right for the Tutela family

A baby grand piano arrived at the home of Domenic and Joan Tutela in Wilmington last week. It is but one of many prizes that have been delivered to the Tutelas in recent months.

The windfall stems from a trip to California in November. The couple has made a similar trip for the past seven years, and each year they have gone to see "The Price is Right," a daytime game show.

This year, Domenic was picked as a contestant.

Not only did Domenic appear on the show, but he came away a winner -- a big winner. His prizes included a boat, a motor scooter, and a baby grand piano. In all, his prizes had a total value of $32,000.

The new piano is their second, and will be played. Joan Tutela, who was Mrs. Massachusetts two years ago, is a pianist. When the grandchildren visit, however, the living room will be "off limits." They can play the old piano, if they want to play.

Association to host school candidates

by Arlene Surprenant

The newly created Wilmington Home and School Association will sponsor a Meet the Candidates Night on Tuesday, March 22 to introduce the five candidates running for the Wilmington School Committee.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will be held in the Fourth of July Building by Town Common. At that time, the candidates will answer four questions posed in advance by the association members. They will also offer a brief summary of their background and interest in the position.

The association is comprised of Wilmington residents interested in the local educational process and in playing an active role in the community. Membership is open to anyone -- parent, retiree, singles or married couples, educators -- who would like to make a difference in the Wilmington School System.

At their previous meeting on February 23, founding members Joan Grady, Peggy Kane, Mary Deislinger, Chris DeHoff, and Rosemary DeMarco agreed to guide the group through the summer. In September, members will elect officers and vote on bylaws and a constitution.

According to Kane, the February meeting was well attended by representatives from various schools and other areas in town. During the fruitful meeting, several ideas were suggested. These include selling a school calendar as a fundraiser, exploring the alleged "weaknesses" at the intermediate level, and meeting regularly with school administrators to form goals and objectives.

The group will meet again on April 26 to discuss the intermediate schools and on May 24 to review the grading process. New members are welcome to attend.

Hot dog truck has a problem

by Arlene Surprenant

Jim Castellano paid a visit to the Wilmington Board of Health Monday night to try to resolve a problem concerning the lack of a waste tank for his hot dog truck.

Board members said under the Food Establishment Regulations of the Department of Public Health, Castellano had to have a waste tank 15 percent larger than his water supply. This would require him to put in an approximate 18 gallon tank. Castellano said there was no room on his truck for that size container. He asked if he could use six five gallon buckets instead and arrange to empty them through a company that handles waste materials.

"I have no authority to do anything other than what the code says," replied Health Director Greg Erickson.

Members went over several possible solutions. Chairman James Ficociello said the tank doesn't have to be that big or expensive. Members said they could go along with two smaller tanks placed in strategic locations to hold the soapy waste water. Castellano said he would try to work out a solution. Members said if he wasn't successful to come back again.

OF YOUR STORAGE SPACE

Most people never feel as though they have enough closets, no matter how much storage space they have. This is one reason why our buyers place ample storage space fairly high on their new home wish lists.

One of the minor indignities our sellers face is having prospective buyers open all the closets, not to snoop, but to determine the size of each. Clutter can make even an enormous closet look small. Because closets are so important to customers, it is wise to have them as uncluttered and well-organized as possible while your property is on the market. If you have too many items for your closets to hold, consider having a yard sale, or make tax-deductible donation to your local charity.

When you finish with your closets, attack any junk or messes in other storage areas. Whatever amount of storage space you have, it will look much more attractive if you clean it out.

Concerns raised over HOP condos

by Arlene Surprenant
Oakridge Common, a 16 unit condominium complex proposed under the HOP program, was brought before members of the Affordable Housing Task Force at their meeting Thursday night. The project is slated to be built on a 1.7 acre site off Oakridge Circle.

Proponents Gloria and Joseph Raetano met with some opposition from approximately 15 neighbors who read about Wilmington's fourth affordable housing project in last week's Town Crier.

The Raetanos said they were seeking to build the project under the state's Chapter 774 law because an application to build a house on that site had been denied for seven years by the Wilmington Board of Appeals.

In order to comply with the guidelines of the Homeownership Opportunity Program, the Raetanos said they reduced their original proposal from 20 to 16 townhouse style units. Of those, five would be deemed affordable. Access will reportedly be through an easement owned by the proponents and the site will be serviced by a large septic system.

The Raetanos said they have submitted an application for site approval and their next step would be a hearing for a comprehensive permit before the board of appeals.

Vocal neighbors and abutters voiced their concerns. They cited "severe water problems" in the area, ledge on site, low water pressure, density, increase in traffic and subsequent danger to young children, and the "close proximity" to nearby homes as some of their major arguments against the project. It was pointed out one of the four buildings would be 17 feet from the nearest lot line.

Gloria Raetano maintained, "it's a small project; you won't see it really from the street." She also made a plea for lower cost homes.

"People need housing. There's no doubt about it. People have to live and we have to make room for them. You have to look out for the other guy," she said.

Mrs. Ferguson of Marcus Road replied, "I don't think putting 16 (units) in that area is looking out for anybody."

Task Force members Dan Gillis and Vaughn Surprenant offered suggestions. Gillis said since abutters were upset and the project might not fit in with local needs, the proponents go along with the current R10 zoning. He maintained the Raetanos had a "right" to build in that zone.

Surprenant, who also abuts the site of a proposed 774 project, suggested the right approach would be to meet with the neighbors and try to address their concerns.

Task force Chairman Jim Stewart told the neighbors they would be notified when the appeals board hearing would be held and they could voice all their concerns at that time. He explained his task force could only play a "limited role" in the Raetano's project.

Dr. Tom Cottle to speak on family communications

Dr. Thomas Cottle, WCVB-TV's "Good Day!" host and practicing psychologist, will be the guest speaker at the 20th anniversary celebration of Wilmington Family Counseling Service Inc.

Cottle will speak on the topic "Communication in the Family" at a dessert reception on Wednesday, March 23 at 7 p.m. at the Wilmington Sons of Italy Hall on Ballardvale Street. The public is cordially invited to participate in this special evening.

In addition to his work on the "Good Day!" show, Dr. Cottle contributes special features to the Channel 5 "Midday" newscast. Previously he hosted "Tom Cottle: Up Close," a celebrity interview program, and NBC's "Hot Hero Sandwich," an Emmy-award winning children's program. Cottle holds a B.A. degree from Harvard University and a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago.

The Wilmington Family Counseling Service Inc. was started twenty years ago by the Council of Churches and other concerned residents who wanted to make counseling and therapy services available at a cost people could afford.

Fourteen community leaders who, as board members, were crucial to the development and sustained growth of the agency, will be recognized at the celebration as an honorary board. The honors will go to four founding board members: Emil Berger, deceased founding president and AVCO personnel officer; Lt. John Imbimbo, retired police lieutenant; James Banda, attorney and former selectman; and Marion Boylen, former board of health chairman.

Other leaders who will be recognized on the 23rd are James Durkee, pharmacist and former board of health chairman; Paul Bodenstein, retired school counselor; Dr. John Silvers, engineer; Mildred Wolff, community affairs leader; and William Redmond, former Wilmington school counselor. Also, Rev. Everett Reed, Baptist minister; Richard Meegan, psychology teacher; Anna Low, Community Fund officer; Dr. John Marshall, physician; and Dr. Carol Golub, psychologist-director.

Wilmington Family Counseling Service has grown through the combined efforts of many people. The anniversary celebration is in keeping with that tradition since the event is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club, with additional support provided by the Police Auxiliary and the Sons of Italy.

Tickets are on sale now and may be obtained at Cameo Video, Church Street Hardware, Village Apothecary, and Dr. John Marshall's Lowell Street office. Tickets are $3.00 per person. If seats are still available, tickets will also sell for $4.00 apiece at the door.

Health fair at Wilmington High School

The week of March 14 has been declared Heart Week by the Wilmington School Committee. The Wilmington schools, in conjunction with the American Heart Association, will present a health fair at the Wilmington High School gymnasium on Thursday and Friday.

The health fair is open to students and the general public. Students will be bused to the health fair during the day.

Each school will be represented by its own projects, and there will be many outside exhibitors as well. Health professionals will be on hand to conduct blood pressure screenings, cholesterol screenings ($2 charge), vision and hearing tests, and a CPR (cardio-pulmonary resuscitation) demonstration. Other demonstrations will include jazzercise, jumping rope, and more.

The health fair will be open to the public on Thurs., March 17 from 7 to 9 p.m. and on Fri., March 18 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Task force now official

At Thursday's meeting, it was announced Wilmington's Affordable Housing Task Force has been recognized as an official town board under the Wilmington Board of Selectmen. Previously, it only acted in an advisory capacity.

Like the Fourth of July Committee before them, task force members are now viewed as "special employees" of the town. As an official board, members are required to follow certain regulations such as continuing to post their meetings, which are open to the public. All appointments to the board will now be made by the town manager.

State traffic study coming

Representative James R. Miceli (D-Tewksbury, Wilmington) has announced that the Massachusetts Department of Public Works has commenced the task of reviewing the traffic problems at the junction of the northbound off-ramp of I-495 and Route 38 in the Town of Tewksbury, at his request.

Representative Miceli has been in contact with the chief highway engineer and the commissioner of the Commonwealth's Department of Public Works concerning the traffic deficiency and has been informed that the engineering required to correct the problem will begin immediately. D.P.W. officials have assured Representative Miceli that the problem will be corrected with all due speed.

Restaurant inspections going well

William McMenimen, Tewksbury's Public Health Officer, has reported to the Board of Health that in recent days seven inspections have been made in Tewksbury restaurants. So far, he said, he is satisfied with the value of the inspections, and he emphasized his statements of satisfaction.

The Board of Health has agreed to "try out" inspections with several groups of persons to the inspections. Three persons have been in one group, and another person has been working by himself.

The reports were pleasing to Board of Health members. Member Bill Lindsey told the board that having restaurant inspection was better than having a sanitarian, as had been proposed. He said that the members should "do some work" to "sell it to the Town Meeting."

Members of the board agreed that they should have a meeting with the Tewksbury Finance Committee to tell of the value of restaurant inspection.

Frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

May 3rd is the deadline to submit papers for state senate and representative seats in Massachusetts. And should past history prove true, you might think the Republican party would once again be found wanting. In most recent years, the state GOP hasn't made any bona fide attempts in the gubernatorial race, and has even left a majority of legislative districts unchallenged altogether.

But with the likes of Bill Melahn gathering signatures in nearby Andover to face off against State Senator Pat McGovern, you can see some light at the end of the tunnel for the GOP to at least recruit credible candidates for the Legislature.

Bill Melahn has an impressive task ahead of him. That's because running as a Republican for anything these days isn't exactly fashionable in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, especially in a district like Pat McGovern's. And when you're running against this, the most powerful woman in the state, you've definitely got some long days ahead of you.

Hailing from Andover, Melahn isn't exactly a stranger to the political process. He was the campaign chairman for Ted Harrington, when Harrington gave Jim Shannon a good run for his money in the race for Attorney General. Today, he is a practicing attorney in Boston, and makes no bones about his feelings on Senator McGovern.

Describing her as "the lady who never met a tax she didn't like", Bill Melahn decided to run because he feels the "people in this state deserve a choice". Saying that the Democratic party has gone too far to the left for his liking, Melahn intends to challenge McGovern directly on the issues. At the top of his list are what he sees as flaws in the universal health care bill (a.k.a. the bill that no one has yet read), and the one issue that Republicans should always win on, taxes.

Back at the state Republican party, spokesman Charlie Manning sees Bill Melahn as "an excellent candidate with a good chance to win". Not exactly the president of the Pat McGovern Fan Club, Manning says that McGovern "came in as a reformer, and now she's like all the democrats in the state senate - yes people".

Though Melahn doesn't seem likely to make too much of the Billy Bulger issue in his campaign against McGovern, spokesman Manning is quick to point to the political liability of McGovern's staunch support of the flamboyant senate president. Manning criticizes McGovern for siding with Bulger on a number of questionable issues, including the recent breaking story where Bulger amended the state transportation bill to take three acres of land behind Boston Garden from the City of Boston for a new sports complex, to be controlled of course by the state. No doubt this new sports complex wouldn't be complete without lots of new jobs to give out to lots of little political junkies throughout the Commonwealth, or at least South Boston.

Meanwhile, State G.O.P. spokesman Charlie Manning pegs Melahn's challenge to McGovern as one part of an overall plan to rejuvenate the Republican party this election season. "This is a make or break year. Anyone fed up with the Poles on Beacon Hill better get interested in the races".

I couldn't have said it better, Charlie.

Savings accounts

Do you have a savings account that you seldom use? It might be your "rainy day" fund, or maybe some money you have put aside for your children.

This week's Town Crier has a list of names of people whose bank accounts have been classified as "unclaimed funds" by the state treasurer.

By law, the state treasurer must take over funds in bank accounts which go untouched for five years. Before the law was passed, the money was sort of a bonus for the banks. Now it goes to the state. At least the state makes an honest effort to refund the money. Of course, the state treasurer tries to make it look like he is doing you a favor in giving you back your money. He is merely doing what he must do by law.

The missing link is that nobody informs the public that bank accounts need to be updated periodically to avoid being classified as "unclaimed funds." If you have put aside the $50 given to your child when he or she was born, it would be a good idea to take the bank book to bank on your child's birthday. For any bank account you might have, be sure there is some record of activity, even if it is simply recording of interest.

You could say that the holder of a bank account need show some interest in his or her money.

The Humble Farmer Ah have sinned

When I mentioned that I'd like to earn more money my neighbor Gramp Wiley tossed a newspaper at me and suggested that I confess my sins.

"Confession is good for the soul," he continued. "There's also nothing like it for grabbing front page headlines and overflowing the coffers."

I looked at the paper and exclaimed, "So Jimmy Swaggart has jumped on the bandwagon too."

Gramp nodded, "He's some smooth bird. You should have seen him on TV last night. Took him a whole minute to work his lip up into a credible quiver as he said, 'Ah have sinned.'"

"But how would sinning improve my financial situation?"

"Number one, if you could grab a headline like that, even the Civic Center wouldn't be big enough to hold the crowds that would turn out to see your show. Only Hinky or James Earl Ray could draw bigger crowds."

"Or Squeaky Fromm," I added, eager to give women their due.

"Think about it! Jimmy Swaggart has been relieved of his broadcasting duties for three months -- after what he's been through he needs to rest up, anyway -- but if he were to go on the air tonight every man, woman and child in North America would be watching."

"Ah certainly wouldn't want to miss it," I agreed.

Gramp Wiley settled deeper into his rocking chair. "And think what standing before a crowd and confessing to a sin like that does. Every man in the congregation thinks to himself, 'He might be rich and famous but underneath it all he's just like me.' Women, old and young alike, burn within their breasts and dig deep into their purses to help out with the good work. Money. That's the name of the game."

"I couldn't cry before a crowd," I said softly.

Gramp Wiley pounded the arm of his rocker and shouted, "That's why you'll never amount to anything. You were brought up to believe that real men don't cry. If a red-neck like Ollie North could bo-hoo there's nothing wrong with it."

"Crying didn't do Ed Muskie a bit of good and he is certainly one of the greatest men in the country."

Gramp Wiley gave me a look that meant "Ain't that pitiful," and explained, "It doesn't do a good man a bit of good to cry, but ears and a quivering lip are marks of repentance in your basic sinner. Of course, when a man's tears are honest, it's because he was careless or stupid enough to get caught, but your general public wants to accept them as tears of repentance. Also, in Muskie's case, displaying vulnerability and sensitivity wasn't in back then. Like many other great men he paid for simply being a few years ahead of his time."

"How is all this going to help me financially?"

"First, you're going to have to sin."

I hung my head, "There's no film in my camera."

"The thought is as bad as the deed," Gramp cride cheerfully. "Think sin and profits are soon to follow. Remember how Jim Bakker tried to cover up his sins? Swaggart pulled a holier-than-thou coup by coming right out - after they showed him the pictures - and admitting, 'Ah have sinned.' You could grab even more headlines by confessing to your sins before they were published."

"True, Swaggart didn't confess to specific incidents of moral failure with true humility until he was caught," I mused.

"I can see it now - you approach the mike amid gasps, quivering lip and streaming tears, accepting the blame for your shortcomings. The audience gives you a standing ovation as you beg their forgiveness with cracking voice. The money rolls in."

"You seem to know a lot about organized religion, Gramp."

"I ought to. Back in the twenties you couldn't blink but what a preacher passed through here. There was more souls made than there was saved."

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

Your February 25 issue of the Town Crier had an article which depicted Selectman Jim Stewart's ideas toward a Wilmington action to obtain affordable housing, that he is looking into the matter. You publish some of his thinking and I agree.

However it is not clear what Selectmen Cain and Ballou's answer are toward helping to solve the affordable housing problem.

In the case of Selectman Ballou you quoted him as saying "Unfair" to Stewart's proposal. I would like to know who it is unfair to, is it the developers, real estate people who in the past 30 years have manipulated a 10,000 sq. ft. lot which sold in Wilmington 30 years ago for $1,000 to $125,000 or 125 times more. Do you know of anything which has appreciated by the same rate in the last 30 years? Maybe what these selectmen want is only the very wealthy. I do not know anyone who has children who can afford to buy a house in Wilmington today, unless they both work thereby setting their children up as latchkey children. Latch key children have no supervision after school. Can these selectmen say this creates no problems? I would like to know Selectmen Cain's and Ballou's detailed answers or their solutions to building buyable, affordable housing in Wilmington.

What does Cain mean, Wilmington is getting out of selling land? What has that got to do with the price of eggs on Friday, or rather what is he saying should be done, to make housing affordable? Especially to the first-time buyer, or some one who is elderly who would just as soon have a smaller place, one they could buy so they might sell their home to their children at a more affordable price.

As I see it, Stewart proposes: building on Wilmington town owned land, Wilmington loses nothing, land can be taxed to the buyer as if the person owns it, who owns the house or whatever on the lot. Communities do have a social responsibility.

As both Cain and Ballou have been elected to be responsible public officials, it would be good if you could ascertain their detailed solutions to the affordable housing need.

The people of Wilmington need to know more fully the views and proposed solutions by all their public officials.

Is this the Town Crier, hence the name, what you founded it for? It would do the community a great service if at one a week, a public official had the opportunity to publish his solution, his ideas, his proposal and sense of direction on their practical solutions to providing young people a solution to buying residences in Wilmington. This not only would give a clearer understanding of each party's position, but it would stimulate discussion of alternatives. One can not digest in one day the information presented at town meeting.

Before the fact is always better than after the fact, but then in the newspaper business that is not always news. If you would pursue this matter it would be greatly appreciated.

Conrad J. Gerhartz
Wilmington

P.S. Sorry to hear what happened to your place. By the way, I don't expect that you will print what I wrote as a letter to the editor. Like you say I write too much and too long; also cover too many points.

The reason I'm writing to you is I am sending copies to others to see if I can get them to open up on affordable housing. Wilmington's cry should be "no more industry." Take the land off Ainsworth Road back of Adele Passmore, for years we have kept industry out. Housing we are for. What is it now? The article is in the warrant to accept it. Put in without even a hearing to the people around. No one can tell you what is going to be put in back on that land. It protects our well field at Brown's Crossing. Do we have people looking out for the interests of the town as a whole? It looks not. Now why would those who directly about and use Ainsworth not be against it. It will not cost them anything. Corey in paying 90 percent. Seems a meeting was held, not a hearing. It's money in someone's pocket. It will be interesting at the town meeting to hear which public official will get up and speak for it. If they have the answer as to what Cory wants to do with it. Let him come forward. What Wilmington needs in affordable housing, why not there.

C.J. Gerhartz
P.P.S. Hear Adele has every issue of your Town Crier since 1960 and she has offered them to you. Nice lady. She does not want to see industry back there either.

We both found out about Ainsworth Road reading it in your paper. How about your helping out here? Make it newsworthy. Keep industry north of 125.

C.J.G.

Dear Larz:

The Wilmington Lions Club would like to thank everyone who helped to make the recent eye screening a success. During the two days of testing nearly 100 people were screened. Fortunately no serious eye problems were detected. However we strongly recommend an annual eye examination.

We would like to thank Mrs. Edith Cunningham of the senior drop-in center and Ms. Michelle Visconte of the Regional Health Center for their invaluable assistance. Our special thanks to all of the physicians of the Burlington Eye Associates without whose assistance we would be unable to provide this free screening to the community.

Sincerely yours,
Jim Buckley, president
Wilmington Lions Club

Gardening column starts next week

The Town Crier is pleased to announce that, beginning March 17, a backyard gardening column, written by Wilmington gardener and author Hugh Wiberg, will appear each week.

Wiberg, well known for his pumpkin growing exploits, is the author of "Backyard Vegetable Gardening for the Beginner," published in 1971. Hugh has taught gardening courses for the Wilmington Adult education program, Mahoney's Nurseries, and the Mass. Horticultural Society. From 1975 to 1977, Wiberg was editor and contributing writer for New England Gardening Magazine.

Early weekend risers frequently hear Hugh on WBZ's "Country-side" program, and Dave Maynard has had Wiberg on answering "live" questions once or twice in May for the last 10 years.

The Town Crier column will begin with basics for beginning gardeners, and will progress to general information on the cultivation of specific crops. Many common gardening problems will be discussed during the course of the spring and summer.

Look for the first column of this regular weekly feature in next week's Town Crier.

Commission reviews wetlands issues

Representatives of Northeast Real Estate were told to resolve runoff problems on a 1.2 acre site off Concord Street before an Order of Conditions could be issued by the Wilmington Conservation Commission.

At last Wednesday's Wetlands Protection Act hearing, engineer Larry Beals and environmental planner Margie Prevot came before the board a second time to outline a proposal to fill land subject to flooding to build a single family home. Both argued that their changed plan was more "sensitive" because compensatory storage would mitigate any negative impact and they would decrease the actual volume of water off site. Beals claimed if all developers would create more flood storage, "your flood problems would begin to go away."

Board members said there is still water runoff off the property. They said traditionally they require a zero increase in runoff and proponents would have to comply with their regulations.

Members went along with a motion to close the hearing. They told Beals and Prevot they had 21 days to clear up the problem with the Conservation Administrator before a decision is issued.

The commission also reviewed wetland crossings and wetland replication plans for the Whitefield Elm Village subdivision off Andover Street. During the discussion with biologist Michael Marcus, members sought to limit the amount of wetland crossing by the main road.

They suggested making one crossing a limited project in order to preserve the wetlands, even though it didn't really qualify as a true limited project. In return, they told proponents from Danco Development Corp that there should be no additional filling on site in any revised plans. Marcus said the way the lots are designed, that shouldn't be a problem. Each of the 43 lots which impact the wetlands will have to come before the commission for separate filings for a hearing.

In a third hearing for a Determination, DPW Superintendent Bob Palmer went over plans to regrade the varsity baseball field at the high school to make it more level. The work has been in the planning stage for the past two years.

The work will take place within 100 feet of the buffer zone. The board felt the project would have a minimal effect on the wetlands and determined there would be no need for a Wetlands Protection Act hearing.

Arts Council grants to be evaluated

What effect have grants from the Massachusetts Council of Arts and Humanities had on the quality of programs and services under its domain? How have these program affected the public?

These are among the questions to be examined by the accounting firm Peat Marwick Main & Co. during a year-long evaluation of the council. The program opens next week with a hearing in Boston, with other hearings scheduled around the state. One of these will be in Lowell on Tuesday, March 22 at the Merrimack Repertory Theatre from 3:00 to 6:00 p.m.

The evaluation will include data collection from numerous sources of data, opinions and expertise, encompassing the arts, humanities and interpretive sciences. Peat Marwick plans to interview both funded and unfunded applicants.

The council administers more than 20 programs, and supports several others administered by the Institute for the Arts, the New England Foundation for the Arts, and the Artists Foundation. This year, the council will grant over $20 million to approximately 800 cultural organizations.

Meet your Registrars

This is the ninth in a series of articles presented by the League of Women Voters of Wilmington in an effort to familiarize the public with the work of our town officials and to encourage the informed participation of citizens in government. The League will host a public "Meet Your Town Officials" reception in May giving citizens an opportunity to meet and talk with officials in an informal meeting.

The Board of Registrars consists of three members appointed by the Board of Selectmen to rotating three-year terms and the Town Clerk who is appointed by the Town Manager. These are paid positions. Members of the board are ineligible to hold any other elective or appointive position during their term.

The Board of Registrars assists in registrations, and certifies signatures on nomination papers, warrant articles and initiative petitions. The responsibilities of the Town Clerk include the keeping of vital statistics, issuing of licenses and taking charge of local, state and national elections in Wilmington. She also acts as clerk of the Board of Registrars and for any Town Meeting.

The business of the board is handled through the office of the Town Clerk during regular business hours and at meetings which are open to the public. In addition, special hours are provided for the purpose of voter registration prior to each election, as designated by law. The Board of Registrars meets on the second Monday of each month at 7 p.m. in room 12 at the Town Hall.

The League would like to take this opportunity to remind citizens to exercise their right to vote. Citizens may register at the Town Clerk's office any time during business hours or during the special hours provided prior to elections. Special hours have been set for voter registration on Wednesday, March 9 and Monday, March 14 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. and Saturday, March 26 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The last day to register for town elections is Monday, March 28 when office hours will be extended to 10 p.m. In order to be eligible to vote you must be registered by 20 days before town elections and 28 days before state and national elections. For further information call Mrs. Pat Ward, Town Clerk, at 658-2030.

Parents of WILMINGTON Athletes

Wilmington High School athletic teams have lost the high-charge competitive edge that used to put fear in opposing teams. (But who cares!) Our athletes work too hard to no longer have this edge. (But who cares!) The High School athletic program is being short changed and new direction must be taken to turn our athletic programs around. (But who cares!) The High School gym should be open all year round for use by our athletes and by our youth programs. (But who cares!) Also those dedicated adults that run practice sessions, count heads, tape ankles, and transport kids.... should be the people that administer the Recreation Program in our town. (But who cares!)

I care very much about the youth programs in our town (10 years in Youth Hockey - 8 years in Pony League) and I have a comprehensive plan to upgrade our schools athletic programs. If you care about your children, their physical fitness well being, and a competitive athletic program at Wilmington High then consider my candidacy for the Wilmington School Committee. I would appreciate your vote.

Shawsheen students renovate h'cap van

When the Handicapped Commission in Wilmington called Kevin Sowryda with an idea for providing a community van accessible to the handicapped, Sowryda knew how the goal could be accomplished well and economically.

A Wilmington representative on the school committee for Shawsheen Tech, Sowryda thought the automotive students at the school could rise to the challenge of renovating Larry Curtis' van.

Curtis, a quadriplegic, wanted other disabled persons to have the independence his van had given him. When he decided to replace his own vehicle, he donated the van for this purpose. The vehicle featured a hydraulic chair lift system in need of repair, and a laundry list of other mechanical and body needs.

Juniors in the automotive mechanics program overhauled the carburetor, replaced the ignition switch, rewired and tuned up the van, and repaired the hydraulic chair lift system. In autobody, Shawsheen students removed dents and patched rust, preparing the van for painting.

"I think the students did a typically excellent job," said John Gillis, who also represents Wilmington on the Shawsheen School Committee. "I know the handicapped will appreciate their efforts."

"Over $3000 worth of labor was put into the van," Sowryda said. "The van is in good condition now," Curtis commented. "The Shawsheen kids did an excellent job." The van is being stored at Bob Doucette's garage, awaiting new tires and a paint job, Curtis noted.

"Then it will be turned over to the Wilmington Commission for Citizens with Disabilities, Inc. (WCCD)," Curtis said. "It will then be available to handicapped people who need transportation."

Curtis is especially sensitive to how a van can assist the disabled. "After I broke my back on the job, I spent a lot of years - about five - without transportation," he said. "I didn't know then that an adaptable van was available. Luckily, I had insurance, and was able to get one."

"Transportation reopened the world for me. Some of the devices that helped me are in the van, for example, the seat can adapt to both walking and non-walking people."

"I know there are other people in Wilmington who could benefit from the van, people who perhaps did not have the insurance I did," Curtis added. "We wanted to create accessibility for the handicapped, and I believe that goal is being accomplished," Sowryda said.

Health Care bill

The Legislative Health Care Bill, H5210, has been passed by the House of Representatives, in the Massachusetts Legislature, as of February 28. There were several days of intense debate, both emotional and political in nature.

Two major factors in the House debate concerned the Governor and the hospital leaders of the state.

Governor Dukakis, it may be said, laid his political prestige on the line by seeking passage of the bill. The universal health care bill would be largely paid for by employers. He has been in a hotly contested race for the Democratic nomination for President of the United States, in the March 8 Primary.

The 1987 version, passed by the Massachusetts Senate, was, in one instance, aimed at reducing the excessive number of acute-care hospital beds. The Senate version was expected to result in the closing of a half dozen low occupancy rate hospitals in the next few years.

The recently passed House version, instead, seeks to add costs to the private sector. About $100 million more has been reported to be involved.

Other factors are said to increase difficulties for employers. One version calls for a cost per employee, per year, of 12 percent on the first $14,000 paid to an employee. There were amendments, one of which lifted the minimum number of employees from six to nine.

The bill now has to go to the Massachusetts Senate where it can expect to be hotly debated.

Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, in the Massachusetts Senate, is Senator Patricia McGovern, of Lawrence.

Senator McGovern will discuss the proposed legislation before the membership of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce March 22, at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington, on Salem Street. The discussion is to begin at 8 a.m. A continental (buffet) breakfast is to be served.

The meeting will be limited to 60 persons. Reservations should be made through the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce 657-7211.

Treasurer's list of unclaimed funds

Massachusetts State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane recently released the names of 32,000 businesses and individuals who are due more than $23 million from abandoned accounts.

Under the state's Unclaimed Money Law, bank accounts, insurance proceeds, checks, stock certificates and the like that have gone untouched for at least five years are deemed to be abandoned. All such accounts must be reported to the Treasury, which then attempts to notify the rightful owners or legal heirs. Last year Treasurer Crane returned more than half of the $20 million in reported abandoned accounts.

Crane said compliance with the law continues to improve. "Nevertheless, once again we have had to assume the role that rightfully belongs to others: How can anyone fail to locate: Boston Gas, Conrail, Newsweek, or the New England Patriots?" the treasurer asked.

Treasurer Crane noted one important aspect of the Unclaimed Money Law which requires that until claimed, all funds are kept in the state's General Fund where they are invested for the benefit for all residents and taxpayers here in Massachusetts.

"The story is about a high school drama group preparing for a play about Antony and Cleopatra," said faculty advisor Joseph Morello. He added that "problems arise from mistaken identity and false accusations" as the plot moves along.

Major roles in "A Cue for Cleopatra" are being played by Tom Gutadauro and Cindy Raymond of Tewksbury; Sherry Parsons and Liane Willey of Wilmington; and Paul Hammond of Billerica. Liborio Salomere, a substitute teacher at Shawsheen, is serving as assistant director and coach.

TOWN OF WILMINGTON

PLANNING BOARD NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

In accordance with the provisions of Chapter 240A, Section 5, M.G.L., the Planning Board will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, March 29, 1988 at 7:30 PM in the Town Hall Auditorium, 121 Glen Road, on certain zoning articles to appear in the Warrant for the Annual Town Meeting.

ARTICLE: To see if the Town will vote to amend the Zoning Bylaw and Zoning Map of the Town of Wilmington by voting to rezone from Residential 20 (R-20) District to Neighborhood Business (NB) District the following described parcel of land:

That parcel of land shown as Parcel 9 on Map 43 of the Town of Wilmington Assessors Maps, shown and described on a plan entitled "Plan of Land in Wilmington, Mass.," Scale 100 feet to an inch, dated January 27, 1988, prepared by Robert E. Anderson, Inc., Reg. Professional Engineer, Professional Land Surveyor, 178 Park Street, P.O. Box 177, North Reading, Mass., and bounded and described according to said plan, as by Main Street 112 feet, more or less; by Clark Street 98.95 feet, more or less; by Washington Street 160 feet, more or less; and along the northerly perimeter by two courses 141 feet, more or less and 73 feet more or less; containing 21,700 square feet of land area, more or less;

A copy of said plan is filed in the office of the Town Clerk; or do anything in relation thereto.

ARTICLE: To see if the Town will vote to amend the zoning bylaws and zoning map of the Town of Wilmington to rezone from Residential 20 (R-20) to High Density Business (HDB) a parcel of land shown on Map 72, Parcel 1-A, bounded and described as follows:

Lot B - beginning southerly by drill hole on Lowell Street 575'-12"E, 150 feet to a stake; westerly by Lot A as shown on a plan recorded with Middlesex North District Registry, Plan Book 88, Plan 119A, S16°-38'-30"E, 150 feet to a stake; thence northerly by Lot C on said plan S80°-11'50"E, 150 feet; thence easterly by land now or formerly owned by John Elia on said plan S14°-08'-30"E, 102.81 feet; thence easterly S14°-51'E, 58.76 feet to a drill hole, containing 20,656, square feet more or less to the point of beginning.

Lot C - beginning southerly by Lot B on said plan S80°-11'50"E, 150 feet to a stake; thence northerly by Lot A now or formerly owned by Ernest J. Thibo et ux N89°-42'-30"E, 141.54 feet; easterly by land now or formerly owned by John Elia S13°-25'-30"E, 27.0 feet, containing 1,860 square feet more or less to the point of beginning; substantially shown on a plan entitled "Plan of Land in Wilmington, Surveyed for Ernest J. and Marie E. Thibo, Sept. 4, 1956, H. Kingman Abbott, Reg. Surveyor, Reading," or do anything in any manner relative thereto.

ARTICLE: To see if the Town will vote to amend the Zoning Bylaw and Zoning Map of the Town of Wilmington by voting to rezone from Residential 60 (R-60) District to Residence 20 (R-20) the following described parcel of land:

Beginning at the most Southeast lot corner at an iron pipe, said point being on the westerly side of Andover Street and at land of Joseph Sciarappa et al, the line runs

Southerly for a distance off 121.53 by land of said Sciarappa to a corner, thence

Northerly for a distance of 408.58 by land of said Sciarappa to an iron pipe at a corner, thence

Westerly for a distance of 1181.57 feet bill paid.

There is one drawback to the increased income level and that is the program will be ending April 15. The reason the fuel program and other elderly and low income family programs are cutting back is due to the drastic decreases in federal funding to keep them going.

Closeout

As of April 15 the fuel program will close out. What does that mean? It means the Community Teamwork will pay for only deliveries made before the April date. Bills for the April deliveries will be accepted up to June 1. If you still have money left in your allotment after the 15th of April, you have lost it. It would be wise to check your oil tank before the above date and if you have money left, call your oil company to fill the tank. A full tank should take you through the warm months. Remember to send the bill in as soon as you can to be sure that it is paid.

Social close out

We will be closing out the St. Patrick's therapeutic social Tuesday, March 8. After that date your name will be placed on a waiting list. If you have signed up and feel you will not be able to attend, please let us know so we can allow another who failed to sign up when it was open, to attend.

Arts class

The art class will start Monday, March 14 in the craft room. It will be from 1 to 3 p.m. If you ever wanted to learn to draw with charcoals or pastel crayons this is your opportunity. I have seen Ella's work, it is beautiful. She has been teaching her talent to many over the years. Join her class, you will really enjoy it.

still by land of said Sciarappa to a corner of land of A.A. Tambone and J.W. Blackman III, thence;

Northerly for a distance of 1315.61 feet by land of said Tambone and Blackman to a corner of land of the Town of Wilmington, thence;

Easterly for a distance of 754.62 by land of the Town of Wilmington to a concrete bound at a corner, thence;

Southerly for a distance of 683.06 feet still by land of the Town of Wilmington to an iron pipe at a corner, thence;

Easterly for a distance of 553.80 feet still by land of the Town of Wilmington to a drill hole at a corner of a stone wall at land of Scott A. Ferguson, thence;

Southerly for a total distance off 1217.54 along a stone wall by land of said Ferguson and land of Albert G. Fiorenza, Scott W. Richmond and Antoinette M. Valpe, Edward F. and Lorraine R. Hanlon and land of Joseph F. and Stella Courtney to a drill hole at a corner of the stone wall, thence;

Easterly for a distance of 110.50 feet by land of aforementioned Courtney to a corner on the westerly side of Andover Street, thence;

Southerly for a distance of 183.53 feet along the side of Andover Street, a public way, to the point of beginning.

Said parcel being shown generally as Parcels 3, 19, 21, 33 and 34 on the Town of Wilmington Assessors Map R-3 and containing 40.66 acres, or do anything in relation thereto.

ARTICLE: To see if the Town will vote to amend the Zoning Bylaw and Zoning Map of the Town of Wilmington by voting to rezone from General Industrial (GI) District to High Density Business District (HDB) the following described parcel of land:

that parcel of land located on Main Street shown as Parcel 1-C and Parcel 1-D on Map 38 of the Town of Wilmington Assessors Maps containing approximately 4.1 acres of land more or less, and owned by Jaishri J. Singh as Trustee of Surajpatti Realty Trust by deed dated November 20, 1984 and recorded with Middlesex County North District Registry of Deeds in Book 2896, Page 65; or do anything in relation thereto.

Fair coming

We hope to see many seniors active in the craft class, making articles for the fall fair which is not too far off. You will also be learning to make any of the beautiful crafts you have admired in stores. Wouldn't you love to give a gift like the ones you admired as a gift, at Christmas or other special days? The class is taught by a very talented lady. She can take material and turn it into a work of art. Join Mary in her class Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

No smoking

means everybody

It has been noted that more and more seniors are ignoring the rules of smoking in the center and the minibuses. We have set aside two areas for smoking in the center. Those are the card room and the kitchen. All other areas are restricted. No one is to enter the center with a cigarette, cigar or pipe in their mouth or hand. Nor are they to walk through the hall with a lighted pipe, cigar or cigarette. You are not to walk from the card room to the kitchen with any of the above.

We do not want to stop smoking in the building smoking areas but if those ignoring the no smoking signs continue to do so we will be forced to do so for the safety of all seniors utilizing the facility.

Smoking was never allowed on the minibus. If any senior breaks this rule they will not be allowed the privilege of being transported. It is the council's responsibility to set rules that protect the building and the minibus for all of us, please help us to do this by obeying the rules.

A copy of the proposed text and map may be inspected at the Wilmington Planning Board Office or at the Town Clerk's Office, Town Hall, 121 Glen Road, during regular business hours.

Any person interested or wishing to be heard on the zoning proposals should appear at the time and place designated.

Wilmington High School

Wilmington High School has announced that Angela Lin, a member of the senior class, has been named as a finalist in the National Merit Scholarship Competition. Selection for this scholarship is based on the student's score on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT) and is restricted to only 6,000 outstanding high school seniors across the nation.

In addition to her outstanding score on the PSAT, at the present time Angela is ranked second in the Wilmington High Senior Class while being enrolled in the very demanding Advance Placement/Honors Program. Angela is planning to attend one of the prestigious Ivy League universities next year.

Angela is also an active member of the Wilmington community as well as an accomplished artist.

Wilmington juniors will participate with approximately 2300 area high school juniors in the 13th annual Regional Career Fair at the North Campus of the University of Lowell on Tuesday, March 15. There will be everything from A to V - Accounting to Veterinary Medicine.

At this annual event, co-sponsored by the Merrimack Valley Association of School Committees and the University of Lowell, students will attend two classroom sessions to learn about two chosen areas of interest from professionals in 41 different fields. These incentives banking/finance, dentistry, law enforcement, performing arts, and chemical engineering.

The 2300 students from 15 area public and parochial schools will also be exposed to general information about career opportunities from local businesses, schools and agencies represented by nearly 45 exhibitors who will have convention-type displays in Cumnock Hall during the day.

According to Mrs. Florence Athanasia, a Career Fair Committee member from Wilmington High School, the event provides an opportunity for students to explore two particular careers in depth with professionals in that field. An opportunity exists for students to ask specific questions and receive up-to-date pertinent answers from people who know and understand the career because they are involved on a day-to-day basis.

Wilmington High School has announced that Noel Bouchie, a member of the junior class, has been nominated for the Chancellor's Talent Award Program for 1988. This program is geared toward top quality high school juniors who compete for a four-year tuition scholarship at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

The entire Wilmington school community extends its congratulations to Noel!!

Windows, windows, windows

Window shopping has taken on a new meaning on Ballardvale Street in North Wilmington. The Pella Window Store has displays of Pella's many styles, with a warehouse full of about 10,000 windows.

Pella opens window store

For many years, the Pop Neilson house on Glen Road, also known as The Elms, has held the distinction of having the most windows of any house in Wilmington.

While the 56 windows in that house may still be the most for a home, there is now a warehouse with many, many more windows.

Located on Ballardvale Street, the Pella warehouse has as many as 10,000 windows. Located in 97,000 square feet of a building dubbed "The Mosque" for its rounded facade caps, The Pella Window store serves as the Greater Boston distribution point for Pella, which has six other window stores in the area and hundreds nationwide. The Ballardvale Street facility is just beyond the Sons of Italy Hall.

Pella is based in Iowa, in a town of the same name, about 60 miles southeast of Des Moines. The Pella Window factory dominates the town, with a plant of about 35 acres.

The local Pella facility was on display last Friday. The window store occupies a small portion of the building, and another 5000 square feet are used for offices. Most of the building, however, is occupied by windows. Some are still in pallets, and others are stored in racks. There is a large shop where windows are set up with flanges prior to being shipped for installation.

The window business has changed radically in recent years, with the market now dominated by large national firms such as Pella instead of small local firms.

The Pella line includes windows, doors, skylights and even entire sunrooms. Designs of windows have been enhanced to the point where they often become the dominant feature in buildings.

Dom Savio upsets Tewksbury

Quick finish for Redmen, 6-5

The best season in Tewksbury High School hockey history came to a surprisingly quick finish last week when the Redmen were eliminated in the first game of the Eastern Massachusetts Division II Tournament.

The 6-5 loss to Dom Savio ended the TMHS season with a 16-2-3 record, still the best in the school's hockey history.

The team's only other loss came way back on January 16, a 4-2 setback to Lawrence Central Catholic.

The quick loss in the tourney was unexpected in that the Redmen were seeded second in Division II.

But what came before that disappointment should not be quickly forgotten.

The Redmen posted wins over Andover (10-2), Chelmsford (4-3), Billerica (6-2), Wakefield (5-2), Haverhill (11-0), Methuen (8-3), Lowell (8-1), Lawrence (12-1), Dracut (10-2), Wilmington (7-1), Billerica (4-1), Haverhill (6-3), Methuen (4-1), Westford (10-1), Dracut (15-1) and Andover (10-2).

The ties came against Woburn (4-4), Wilmington (3-3) and Chelmsford (3-3).

Before the season began coach Bob McCabe's one weak link was his defense, but the play of Steve Vassil, Jim Hamilton, Bill Gosse, Paul Botto and Tom Verrill helped to solidify a potential problem spot.

The offense was solid and featured the best all-around skating team that TMHS has seen in quite some time.

The leaders were Tim Quinn (22 goals, 27 assists), Derek Doherty (32 goals, 26 assists), Doug Mann (22 goals, 13 assists), Keith Krugh (12 goals, 21 assists) and Ty Fukuda (11 goals, 17 assists).

The goaltending was also a bright spot for Tewksbury, with Jack Sweeney (2.0 goals against average) and Keith Blum (1.5) both having superb seasons.

So, despite the high tournament expectations that were quickly dashed, all was not lost in a season that saw the Redmen win their fourth consecutive Small School championship.

East Boston eliminates TMHS

Jets burn Redmen, 67-57

The TMHS basketball squad made its first tournament appearance in 15 years a memorable one last week, hanging tough before falling, 67-57 to the fast breaking East Boston Jets in the first game of Division II North action.

Senior forward Rich Prince went out in high style with 25 points, shooting 11 from 13 from the line in his final game at Tewksbury High School.

Dean Graffeo (nine points), Tom Bradley (eight points) and Carl Melius (seven points) also contributed to the Redmen cause.

Coach Bob Melillo's Redmen were done in by several fast breaking surges by an East Boston team that scored a bunch of its points in the paint. Fowards John Blake (19 points, 17 coming in his team's 25 point third quarter) and Mike Campbell (16) led the way for the winners.

Melillo is pleased with this group of seniors that finished with a solid 46-32 record over three years. This year the team finished second in the Small School division of the MVC with an overall mark of 14-7.

Key graduates for the Redmen include Prince, point guard Kevin O'Brien, guard Graffeo, center Melius, forward Dave McSweeney and backup center Dan Britten.

season

The Redmen hockey squad skated to a superb 16 win season, losing only two games while tying three. Dom Savio took TMHS out of the tourney with a 6-5 win.

New England championship wrestling

DeVivo wins New England title

The Tewksbury High School wrestling squad placed a surprising second in the New England Tournament this past weekend at Nashua High School, as all three wrestlers placed, with senior Scott DeVivo winning his first New England championship to complete his superb TMHS wrestling career.

The Coventry School of Rhode Island took the top spot. That school has won seven consecutive Rhode Island state titles.

DeVivo won three state titles at Tewksbury, finishing with a 106-16-1 career slate despite being sidelined by illness for most of his junior season.

DeVivo earned his New England title with a 9-3 decision over Windham, Conn. wrestler Ruben Madera in the 152 pound weight class.

Scott finished with a perfect 40-0 record this season, winning 33 of those matches by falls.

Junior Tom Aylward completed his superb late season surge with a third place finish at 160 pounds.

Tom won his first state title just one week ago. Tom's brother Brian, now a freshman wrestler at Brown University, won the 171 pound New England title a year ago.

The final feather in Tewksbury's New England cap was heavyweight Dave Carciofi's third place. Dave, a senior at TMHS, also won his first state title a week ago.

Graffeo gives it his best shot

Tewksbury guard Dean Graffeo (3) prepares to defend in the recent MVC all-star game. Graffeo and the Redmen were eliminated by East Boston in tournament action last week.

Tech girls advance, 53-45

The Shawsheen Tech girls' basketball squad has advanced to the Division III North Semifinals with a 53-45 victory over Pentucket Regional.

The balanced Tech attack was paced by Commonwealth Athletic Conference MVP Fran Nowassa with 20 points.

Mary Ellen Edwards and Valerie

Crowell hooped 10 points apiece, and Julie Anzivino rounded out the attack with nine points. The girls will now play Greater Lawrence in the next round of tournament play.

Tewksbury Youth Hockey

Red-hot Squirts roll

The Tewksbury Squirt B-1's recently posted back-to-back wins in the district playdowns. They beat Melrose, 8-1 and Wakefield, 4-1 to qualify for the States.

Scoring against Melrose in a strong win were Ben Christopher (two goals), Brandon Cave (two goals), Mike Labo, Robbie Wiley, Jimmy Hebert, and Kevin Andriolo. Ben Christopher, Kevin Andriolo, Mike Labo, Brandon Cave, Brian Haskell, Tim Murray, Ryan Ahern and Robbie Wiley notched the Tewksbury assists.

The following game against Wakefield was somewhat tougher. Outstanding defense was turned in by Kevin Cedorchuck, Patrick Taylor, Timmy Murray and Jimmy McNames along with strong goaltending by Danny Smart and Michael Higginson.

The goals scored against Wakefield were by Brian Haskell, Jimmy Hebert, Derek Slowe and Brandon Cave. Assists went to Brian Haskell and Jimmy Hebert.

The Tewksbury Squirt B-1 West team beat a tough Northern Middlesex team by the score of 5-3.

Tewksbury was led by Alec Petkiewicz (two goals and one assist) with solo goals scored by Joey Foley, Brett Sweet and David Quigley. Assists were awarded to Dennis MacMullin and Tony Sala.

Their next game against Melrose was a 2-1 heartbreaking loss. It was an up and down game all afternoon, with Tewksbury's lone goal coming from Brett Sweet, assisted by Alec Petkiewicz and Brian Saber, but it wasn't enough to pull out the win. Goaltending was the highlight of the game for both teams.

The following game against Chelmsford resulted in a 3-3 tie. It was a well played game by both teams.

Brett Sweet and Alec Petkiewicz each scored unassisted goals in the first period, with Tony Sala scoring in the second assisted by Kevin McLean.

A lack of support for hockey

Wildcats should be salutedThe Wilmington High School end of season surge to the tournament was sparked by physical play and timely scoring. The Wildcats should be saluted for their efforts.

Dear Rick:

Recently the Wilmington High School varsity ice hockey team played in the Eastern Massachusetts Division II State Hockey Tournament at Salem State College, losing 7-1 to Arlington Catholic to end the season.

Many people in our school were not aware that there was a game because some faculty members did not do their part in publicizing the event to the student body.

The state game was treated like any other game. For one whole week leading up to the game there was one brief announcement about it and there was no pep rally for us like teams in the past have received.

Also, there were no buses to the game. There should have been at least one bus so students who cannot drive would have been able to attend the game. Incidentally, Arlington Catholic brought three busloads of fans to the game.

I find it very interesting that last year when the basketball team made the tournament after a fine season they were rewarded with a pep rally in school and three busloads of fans with a police escort to play at Dom Savio.

Remember the excitement and electricity that ran through the school the week before the game last year? There was none of that this year for the hockey team.

Finally, to add insult to injury, Monday morning in school our team received no recognition whatsoever for having played that weekend.

Hopefully in the future other teams won't be cheated out of the excitement of competing in the State Tournament.

Signed: Scott McMillan, Mario Martinelli, Jr., Denis O'Donoghue, Chris Ward, Joe Magliozzi, Jim Moran, Mike Dunn, Jay Pilcher, John McGrath, Steven Holbrook, Frank Murray, Steven Murray, Eric Pote, Chris McMillan.

Division I South hockey

Locals pace St John's Prep

Four local boys who began their hockey careers playing for Wilmington and Tewksbury Youth Hockey have realized a dream this week as they travel to the Boston Garden to compete in the Division I South Finals of the Eastern Massachusetts High School Hockey Tournament.

Steve Lowney and Adam Pagliarulo of Wilmington and Alex MacLellan and Matt McLaughlin of Tewksbury are students at St. John's Prep in Danvers.

Solid teamwork all season earned the Eagles a second place finish in the Catholic Conference and a berth in the tournament.

On their march to the finals the Eagles faced tough competition, but emerged victorious, beating Brookline, 4-3 in an exciting double overtime and topping Braintree, 5-4 in a game in which Lowney led the team with a hat trick.

The semifinal game took the team to the Garden Sunday evening where they faced Randolph. With the thrill of competing under the Bruin banners, the Eagles scored a 3-0 win.

The Prep will return to the Garden Saturday, March 12, to face rival Catholic Memorial in the final. St. John's has been unsuccessful against CM so far this season, but the team is eager and ready to meet the challenge.

Betting on a sure thing

by Bill Conlon

The ice covering most ponds is now "rotten."

Rotten ice is that weak, gray "slush" ice that isn't safe at any speed. Don't walk on the ice now, because it just isn't strong enough to support any substantial weight.

Ponds are now melting along the shorelines, leaving the center of the lakes coated with a deadly slate-gray cover that will float along for the next few weeks, until "ice out."

And there's the story. "Ice Out" isn't as popular as it once was, but the unusual event happens every year, regardless.

At one time, ice out was an annual betting event, like the Superbowl or the Celtics perennial playoffs.

My maternal grandma, Emma Murray (God rest her -- she gave the world a few superb hunters) used to be one of the regular patrons of the Club Fleur-de-Lis, on the very shoreline of Long Pond in Tyngsboro. She lived only three doors away, so the Fleur-de-Lis was her natural hangout.

Years ago, she once told me, the patrons of the Fleur-de-Lis used to establish a pool to pick the date and time of ice out, winner take all. Back in the days before televised football, you bet on what you had, and ice out was ideal for the pond locals.

Ice out isn't the quickest thing in the world, though. It's not like a sudden boom and flash and then the pond is open. Instead, ice out can take days, or sometimes just hours.

What happens is this: Ice, as we learned in grade school, is less dense than water. The ice expands as it freezes, making it less dense than water. (Incidentally, nothing else has the property of expanding when it freezes. Everything else in nature contracts with the cold.)

Anyway, the ice that we've been running around on lately is thinner now than a few weeks ago. Pretty soon the ice will be but a hand's breadth in thickness, and made up entirely of slush ice, which is very brittle and weak.

Once melted around the edges, wave action will help break up the brittle ice, and warm spring days make the process quicker. Add a stiff wind to make bigger waves and the pond could clear in as little as three hours.

And that's what old-timers did for March amusement -- they bet on when the ice would disappear from the pond.

The other night I saw a program on PBS (the only station worth the effort to watch) about ice out on some northern river.

A rope strung across the river was tied to a wooden pylon built on the ice in the middle of the river. The locals would wager on when the ice would weaken enough to move and break the rope.

The use of a pylon is also the best way to establish an official ice-out time, for those who insist on exact timing. (Some folks are serious about their betting.) When the pylon falls over, it's ice out.

But the best part of ice out is that the pond will be soon clear for boating and bass-chasing.

It's almost time to dust off the old hull and sharpen the hooks in the tackle box. Open water fishing is about to get underway!

Still, we might as well have some more fun with the ice, even if we can't walk on it. So, we bet on it!

— Tackle Box —

Dan McGuinness from the state Division of Fisheries and Wildlife told me this story on Tuesday, and what a story it is! Talk about the one that still might get away!

According to Dan, Ed Cappadona of Watertown was fishing on Harwich Reservoir (on Cape Cod) last Sunday when he tied into a true whopper. Fishing with a 7-inch Rapala, Ed hooked and landed a largemouth bass weighing (are you ready?) 15-pounds, 7-ounces! Dan said it took Ed over a half hour to land the monster!

Ed brought his fish to a local baitshop for official weighing, and he even kept the fish alive in a cooler so he could release it later! (That qualifies Ed for sainthood, by the way. Anybody else would have surely mounted THAT one!)

Once weighed and measured, and with a Polaroid of the fish in hand, Ed let the bass go, with witnesses present to watch the release. Now for the hard part --

It seems that the baitshop where Ed brought his fish didn't have a current certification for the state fishing awards program. Dan said the shop-owner's signature would be good enough for verification, but the owner has been reluctant to sign, for some unknown reason, and now the shop-owner is off to Florida for a bass tournament. Nice guy!

Also, the shop-owner said his scale hadn't been checked by Weights and Measures for some time, but Dan said that if the device could be re-calibrated, he'd accept the difference and add or subtract from the fish's weight.

That difference in weight could mean a lot. The current state record for bass is 15-pounds-8, and Ed's fish is just one ounce shy of a new state record.

If the shop-owner will sign the form, Ed will almost certainly win the state award for biggest bass caught in 1988, and if the scale is off in the right direction, he could break a state record that has held since 1975. We'll find out more on this one as time goes on, and I'll print the shop-owner's name here once I get it.

Sorry it's taken so long, but here are the results of the New England Bass Angling Association derby held on Lake Mascupic on Feb. 27. Only 22 anglers turned out for the event, sad to say.

First place and $250 went to Pete "Chad" Sokolowski of Wilmington for a five-fish creel weighing a total of 9-pounds-7. (Hey Chad, guess who gets to buy beer next time out!) Second place and $100 went to Westford's Bob Nolet for a five-fish creel that weighed in at 6-pounds-8, and $50 went to Frank Chasse of Dracut for a five-fish stringer weighing in at 6-pounds-4. Funny, but I didn't have a single flag fishing the same pond on the very next day. I guess the NEBAA guys must have poured their bait buckets down and none of the fish were hungry for the Sunday event.

Dan McGuinness also noted that trout stocking will begin very soon, and that the state's Tags 'n' Trout program is doing quite well this year. Tags 'n' Trout has the state putting tagged fish into a pond or stream, with local baitshops and firms offering prizes for the tags.

Ryan Rappoli along with Pat and Tim Finn played great defense for Indiana. Brian McFeeters, Chris Crowell and Phil Florence got key rebounds and steals for Minnesota.

Ohio State 37 Michigan 17
Top scorers for Ohio were Brian Tildsley with nine, Dan Bento with eight and John MacKinnon and Greg Peters with six points each.

Top scorers for Michigan were Marc Trinchera with six, Billy Bates with four and Ken Bourinot with four.

Robbie LaVita, Paul Savage and Jay Iannacchio had several assists for Michigan. Keith Inzeniza, Charlie Kacamburas and Doug Costa made key passes for Ohio State.

This man's life has gone to the dogs

By JIM ROUILLARD

George Seaver has — quite literally — a dog of a job. Of course it has its lighter moments.

The Great Danish invasion of Norval Avenue was one such moment — authentically replete with bloodlust, battle hatchet and no hope for a bridal bouquet.

Yet Seaver's waltz around the St. Pat cemetery oak, on the other hand, was not quite so droll.

Demonstrably the lowest-paid worker in the Stoneham town employ, George Seaver may, as well, be the most battered.

I first met the Stoneham Dog Officer some time ago, at the office of Town Clerk Annamae Arsenault. I had gone there to learn who owned a loose dog with a particular penchant for nipping a bicyclist's heels (mine). By coincidence, George Seaver came into the office at the same time on an errand of his own.

The dog officer himself was looking a little down in the mouth that day — with good cause, it turned out. So the state of my own slightly tattered flesh soon paled in significance, by comparison to Seaver's more lurid tale of woe.

And though his story was economical and unvarnished, it raised both my hackles and my compassion for a man who does — by wide report — a highly conscientious and competent job.

Bandaged, bruised, with his arm in a sling and his cuts freshly doused with antiseptic — Seaver said he had been involved a few days before in an unexpectedly fractious encounter with a German shepherd of unknown address.

Called to collar a loose dog which was reported to be near some children at the Broadway/MacArthur Road playground, Seaver said he had ended by playing ring around the oak tree with the beast.

STONEHAM DOG OFFICER GEORGE SEAVAR, self-avowed and obvious dog lover, holds leashes of two "sweetheart" Doberman Pinschers Heidi, left, and Sarah. Seaver's other sweetheart, wife Mary, says she can take or leave dogs — except in the family's living quarters.

After returning home from outpatient treatment at the hospital, Seaver said he was still white with shock.

Yet he was lucky.

The fracture in his arm was clean and simple — not compound — and it took "only" three or four months to heal — with the added assist of five months' physical therapy.

Even so, Seaver said, he took no time off from his duties, except for the hours actually spent in therapy. Nor has he taken time off, he said, for any of the several times he has been bitten during his town employ.

For each of the last five years, Seaver has earned $7,800 for what Police Chief Eugene

FM TALK: Comments and opinions from our far-flung correspondent this week:

WHAT AM I doing wrong? I've been attempting to come up with another bestselling book for years, and I've discovered it isn't as easy as you might think. Just find a hot topic and write about it, right? Sure sounds simple enough. But wrong. It isn't. Perhaps I'm writing about the wrong subjects. Danielle Steele, on the other hand, is apparently writing about the right subject: romance. Steele had three of last year's top five paperbacks and two of last year's top ten hardcovers. Currently there are nearly 18 million copies of her recent five bestsellers in print. The titles include "Kaleidoscope," "Fine Things," and "Wanderlust." I guess I am writing about the wrong topics. Got any great ideas for a love story, Zelda?

WOMEN MAKE UP the majority of Danielle Steele's audience, and it comes as no surprise. One of the reasons why they buy those romantic love stories is possibly a surprise.

According to a recent study conducted at Brigham Young University, unhappy husbands are literally keeping away from their wives. Researchers at the Provo, Utah, University studied 108 married couples who were asked to take a test to determine how happy they were.

The couples were then asked to walk towards each other. They were instructed to stop whenever they felt they were at a comfortable distance to conduct a conversation. It was discovered that happily married couples stopped 11.4 inches from each other, while discontented couples stopped at 14.8 inches from each other. According to the researchers, another interesting aspect to the experiment was this: husbands seemed to control the distance. If they were content, they allowed their wives to get close; if they were unhappy, they kept their wives at a distance. Researchers concluded that this move was a means by which the unhappy husbands protectrd their emotional well-being. Since a majority of husbands kept a greater distance between themselves and their spouses, the results of the study spell good news for Danielle Steele, who'll most likely find wives of those unhappy husbands a market for her books.

To get away from paperwork, this lady became a paperhanger

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

Not too long ago, you could find her flying a small plane or producing award-winning copy for the Boston & Maine Railroad. Today, more than likely, you'll catch her on horseback in her backyard or on a ladder in your neighbor's house.

A Burlington resident of 30 years, Gloria Stone has been enjoying her latest career as a paper hanger for 10 years, and the irony of it is she began her latest venture "to get away from paper work."

As the director of public relations and editor of "Minuteman" for the B&M Railroad several years ago, Stone won the "Distinguished Achievement Award for Best One-Man Operation" from the Association of Railroad Engineers. During her 10 years with the railroad, she developed a school safety program for all schools near the tracks.

"We used to run safety programs to tell children about the dynamics of trains, how they were different from rubber-tired vehicles and how dangerous they could be," she says. "There was a real reduction in railroad accidents as a result of this program."

But during all the writing, editing and PR work, she was thinking and planning and practicing. "I began to think how much I would just like to make things look beautiful instead of spending so much time at a desk or on the telephone," she says. "At first, I practiced wallpapering in my own house and in the homes of friends who found out what I was doing, and now we have work that is scheduled three months in advance.

much in demand because so many people are working and more than willing to give them the keys to their kingdoms.

Gloria Stone of Burlington has spent the last ten years as a paperhanger and painter.

"Wallpapering and painting are very satisfying. They are more mechanical than artistic but the results can be very beautiful," she continues. "It's a nice business. You can make a living plus you get to meet some very interesting people."

Stone and her son-in-law make up the Stone Redecorating Service — "we do not redecorate stoves." Although they're in and out of all kinds of homes with all kinds of family situations, they rarely get to actually meet those interesting people. Sticking as close as they can to the greater Burlington area, they are very

"Most of our business comes from recommendations and repeat work for people who want to improve their homes," she says. "Wallpapering is not for everybody. You need patience and a special attitude."

Sometimes they go in for a day and end up staying much longer. "Even though the work we do is cosmetic, we sometimes uncover important problems — like a leak in the roof — that really should be taken care of. The homeowner is not always so pleased to find out

Looking for apartment help

Dear Editor:

I am writing to you in the hope that there is someone in Winchester who can help me with inexpensive or subsidized housing.

I don't know how many of your readers will remember me as Winchester feature writer on the Woburn Daily Times, or recall when I taught writers' workshops to their children in Ambrose elementary school in Winchester.

My urgent need is for a one-bedroom apartment that will also give me enough space for my desk, chair, filling cabinet, typewriter and books, as writing is still my lifeblood and greatest joy.

Older, living on a very modest income, I qualify for subsidy rental for medical reasons.

I'd hoped to live out my days in my present apartment, but the new owner of the house has evicted me to renovate and live in my "writer's garret" himself.

My eviction deadline is April first!

Quiet, clean, respectable, I can offer excellent references from my still present landlord, previous Winchester landlords — dating back over twenty years — editors, teachers, doctors, a school principal, and others.

Elderly housing lists are long, and frankly, if I am to continue to go on writing, which is my life, I need privacy, freedom, and space in which to create.

As a tenant, I will do everything possible to create a clean, quiet atmosphere in peace and beauty. All I ask is help to help myself, a helping hand but not a handout! A landlord who'll understand that I, too, "have promises to keep and miles to go before I sleep."

Isn't there, somewhere in Winchester, a place for someone like me to live?

If you have an apartment to rent, or know of someone who does, please consider me.

Steven-adele Morley

Editor's Note:

Ms. Morley's weekly feature stories appeared for many years in Middlesex East, the supplement which appears in this paper each week.

She was a reporter on the Stoneham Independent, and wrote a weekly column, "Our Town." After she moved to Stoneham in late 1977, until the summer of 1984, besides her newspaper work, she worked as Post-in-Residence teaching weekly workshops at Our Place, a M.E.L.D. center for adults.

In 1984 Ms. Morley was chosen as one of 10 poetry finalists by the Massachusetts Artist Foundation's annual competition.

Her wish is to return to Winchester, apply for her long overdue fellowship, and teach again in elementary schools, as well as continue with her freelance writing.

Anyone who has such an apartment as Ms. Morley urgently needs is asked to call Sheila Herbeck, Community Service Network, Inc., 438-2070.

The hearing ear dog program

The Hearing Ear Dog Program of West Boylston, a non-profit organization that has trained and placed over 300 Hearing Ear Dogs to assist deaf and hearing impaired persons, has recently placed an Assistance Dog to help a young boy who permanently uses a wheelchair.

Teddy Berberian, of Upton, received his Assistance Dog

"Kendrick" in early March. This large, gentle Golden Retriever, donated to the Hearing Ear Dog Program by the Golden Retriever Rescue League, accompanies Teddy to school and helps him by carrying his books in a provided backpack. He picks up anything his master drops, pulls his master's wheelchair, turns on light switches and barks should Teddy fall and need help.

The Hearing Ear Dog Program, in addition to placing 30 Hearing Ear Dogs this year, hopes to place four more Assistance Dogs if funding can be located.

For more information about the "Assistance Dog Project" call or write the Hearing Ear Dog Program, P.O. Box 213, West Boylston, Mass. 01583, telephone (617) 835-3304 Voice or TTY.

Austin Prep considers a new gymnasium

On February 8, the Board of Trustees of Austin Preparatory School authorized Headmaster Dr. Frank P. Gifune, Jr., to contract the services of the architectural firm Hoyle Tanner Associates to conduct a feasibility study for the construction of the new gymnasium at the school.

Dr. Gifune is quoted as saying that the addition of a new gymnasium will enhance the program offerings at the school. The facility will also make for a stronger athletic program, as well as provide space for the presentation of various cultural programs each year.

PAPERHANGER

about these things but it's important that they be fixed," she says.

The biggest house they've done has 14 rooms; and with experience in ceilings and woodwork, they "did everything but the floors." "We put up one paper that was $82 a roll, each roll consisting of about 15 feet of paper," she says. "In the kitchen, we put up some very pretty pink flowered paper that was $110 a single roll. It was from a designer book but it was just paper. They weren't gold-filled but both papers were very artistic." What with the many discounts available, the average person can pretty easily find paper for $12 a roll.

Stubborn paper may be a tad hard to remove but Stone wields a mean scraper. A "wimpy" paste might be a problem for some but she's seen all kinds of things and can improvise readily. She's been known to leave a kitchen cleaner than when she arrived even though she insists she tries to make a good impression by making a huge mess and cleaning it up only upon departure. In fact, she executes a major clean-up whenever she leaves for the day.

She's done some wood-working, built a door to match a door already in place and covered speakers with paper.

She calculates rolls, designs and layout with seemingly few problems. But her "pieces de resistance" are the light switches which she removes and covers with paper so that they perfectly match the patterns on the wall. It's classy and it's elegant, and the time she hung that one roll upside-down, well, no one noticed then and no one knew 'til now.

Actually, paper hanging a la Stone is both an art and a craft. "I always liked to write and of course, as an editor I did a lot of layout and now I find that a lot of paper hangers have had experience doing layout and editing," she says. "Wallpaper today is designed for homeowners to put up themselves, especially the pre-pasted paper which is very easy to use. However, the pastes vary. We once had a paper that we put through the water tray, and the paste turned into something like a gelatin and would stick to absolutely nothing. So rather than delay the work, we just pasted it ourselves.

"We try very hard to make the seams invisible," she continues, "but once, a paper we used in two different houses stuck fast to the wall but the seams lifted up in such a way that we couldn't make them stay down. The older paper hangers have told me that the paper used to be very dependable.

"You could always depend upon it being perfect but we find that it's very rare that a paper is printed without defects - including the paper that cost $110 and had to be sent back twice," she says. "The children are fascinated by our work. That's kind of a bonus for us because we like children and we have fun with them.

As for her advice after being in the business for 10 years, "if you're going to redecorate a room, you should start by removing any wallcovering and painting the ceiling and woodwork, if you need to. Then you should do any floor work, and the wallpaper should be the last thing installed because it's the most delicate."

Spending her days on a ladder is second nature to Stone who learned to fly at the airport in Revere "before it became a mall." Growing up in Winthrop, she was used to sailing and sees flying as a continuation of that love. "I always loved the idea of learning to fly and used to meet the instructor before work around 5 a.m. to have my lesson. I first soloed at the Beverly Airport in a very light snowstorm, among the flurries." Even her husband Al admits that she was a good flyer before she traded in her wings when their son Alan was born.

Stone has always been fascinated by the water and sailing, by the idea of flying and by horses. "Would you like a riding lesson?" she asks. "You have a choice - you can ride Killer or Devil. Seriously, my love of horses started when I was six years old and my father used to try to catch the mean pony they kept at the farm where we bought milk near Fitchburg. I used to ride when I was in high school and then when my daughter Cindy was a teenager we used to ride together, renting horses at Pine Banks.

"Cindy fell in love with a mean mustang who was beautiful and black and had a rocking chair gait," she says. "We bought him and boarded him until we could build a place on our property for him. We brought him home and put a blue ribbon on his tail, and all the children walked around the neighborhood with him."

In the meantime, Pine Banks had a horse that had been mistreated, was in very poor condition and would have to be destroyed unless someone could be found to rehabilitate it. "The people who kill horses are called 'killers' and they would have paid $130 for her but I knew her so I paid $150 - even though she couldn't be ridden until the cuts and sores on her back healed and until she put back some of the 200 pounds she had lost," says Stone.

"Meanwhile, the mustang decided it was more fun to terrorize the neighborhood by racing through the yards and bucking. Having no interest in a dangerous pet, we asked Pine Banks if we could trade him in for a more friendly animal," she continues. "They did have a black quarterhorse - that doesn't mean he cost a quarter - who didn't seem to have any personality but was very obedient and gentle. We named him Amigo and he did develop into a good friend. We've had the horses for 14 years."

They ride in the "beautiful, clean, pretty" Burlington/Woburn conservation area or in Harold Parker State Forest. "Horses are a lot like people. The more exercise they get, the better they feel. During the winter, we try to get out at least once a week and if they seem calm enough I ride Amigo and take Cinnamon on a lead," she says. "In good weather, I sometimes take them out right after work and often one of the neighborhood children who has had training will go with us."

The Stone stable came first and the greenhouse was a natural extension of it. There, Al Stone and a neighbor "use the end products" from the horses for a flower and vegetable garden. Gloria, however, boasts only a "brown thumb," a result of cleaning the stalls.

ROVING

dirty needles. He's going to have a tough uphill battle with the legislature to get their support for the experimental six month program, and he's surely going to have more resistance from the clergy, but at least somebody in power is gutsy enough to take that stand.

CABLE TV's Financial News Network is taking a gutsy stand of its own and has announced it will join Starstream Communications Group of Houston and New York to establish a nationwide business radio news service. It was just a matter of time before this service grew out of the highly successful cable television financial news network. The radio segments, which will be called FNN Business Headline News, will be two minute reports fed to radio stations hourly between 6 a.m. and 7 p.m., Monday through Friday. It is predicted that 70 percent of the nation's radio markets will be covered by this service, which will focus on stock market analysis and local and regional financial news.

MY HAT also goes off to movie directors Steven Spielberg and George Lucas, both of whom are in Washington this week testifying before a Senate judiciary subcommittee looking into proposed laws covering international copyright standards. Spielberg and Lucas are attempting to protect future generations from the desecration of art by greedy businessmen, like the ones Spielberg says are profiting from turning many old black and white movie classics into color productions.

ANOTHER "STAR" - albeit a local one - who's on the move right now is KISS 108's Dale Dorman, who is presently in Mexico to film an episode of "Crime Story," in which he'll play a reporter. Dale, who also hosts the Burlington Marriott's Wednesday night dance contest in Diamonds Lounge, told this columnist just before departing that his episode will air some time next season. Dale, who sports shoulder-length hair, said the producers are making him wear his hair up under a hat for the part.

WHILE ON the subject of celebrities, I forgot to mention in last week's column that Bette Davis, in her recent autobiography, "This 'N That," which I mentioned is fun reading for those who like Hollywood stories, talks about growing up in Tewksbury and Lowell. Did you happen to notice that USS Today's American League sports writer Ken Pickens has picked the Red Sox to finish first this year? He predicts that ace reliever Lee Smith, whom the Sox acquired

Gloria touches up a ceiling with a brush

(Don Young)

Brown thumb or not, she is a past president of the Burlington Garden Club, belongs to the Sierra Club and is very concerned with the environment. "I don't do enough but I do a little," she says. "I enjoy doing things in the background."

Of course, if a New Year's or an anniversary party needs to be organized at Temple Shalom Emeth, Gloria is far from in the background. She can be counted on to get it done, to do it right and to leave no stone unturned - right down to any number of potted plant centerpieces which, given at least three months notice, the Stones can grow for the occasion in their greenhouse.

Not only that, Gloria does a mean limbo, a savory chicken soup, and an excellent cup of coffee.

Most of the time though, she'd rather be "playing" with the horses or making someone else's home beautiful. "You'd think I'd know exactly the kind of paper I want in my own house," she says, "but I can't even decide what to choose for the bathroom - you can't imagine how much I hate the thought of tackling that."

As for her own walls, she's going to decorate them with needlepoint and crewel just as soon as she learns how to do needlepoint and crewel "someday, after I clean my house."

Meanwhile, Cinnamon and Amigo are calling her. They're "intuitive, peppy and perceptive." They "shake hands," do tricks on command, and constantly shower her with kisses.

And most important of all, together, they play, run, "fly at full speed," and take all the time they need simply to enjoy life. The house can wait.

WILMINGTON — A sellout crowd of more than 1,500 turned out at the Ristuccia Expo Center Sunday to watch members of the Wilmington Fire Department and Boston

Bruins Alumni in a benefit hockey game for Muscular Dystrophy. The event raised more than $7,500, which will be donated to the Northeast Massachusetts

Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. "This is the first benefit of this type we have ever had, and it was a terrific success," said Brian Tivman, program coordinator for the Northeast Chapter. "The Wilmington firefighters, and Lt. Joe McMahon in particular, deserve a lot of credit. And John Bucyk and the Bruins were great to work with as well." Lt. McMahon coordinated all the on-ice activities for the Wilmington Fire Department, which turned in a solid effort facing the likes of former Bruin greats Bucyk, John McKenzie, Don Marcotte and Ace Bailey.

In addition, hundreds of area volunteers donated time and services to the proceedings, under the direction of firefighter Gerry Duggan. Among those cited by McMahon and Duggan for their volunteer efforts were the Wilmington Police Department, employees of the Ristuccia Expo Center, Wilmington firefighters and their wives, the Wilmington Department of Public Works, Rocco's Restaurant in Wilmington, North Suburban Paramedics and many area merchants who supported the souvenir program booklet and donated raffle prizes.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association was founded more than 30 years ago to serve youngsters and adults with neuromuscular diseases through a comprehensive program of patient care, research and professional and public health education.

March is nutrition month

Eat more fiber...eat less fat...get enough calcium...lower your cholesterol. If it sometimes seems as if advice on nutrition is coming at you from every direction, it's for a good reason. Current research is showing how important our diets are to good health and disease prevention.

March is National Nutrition Month, which makes it a good time to learn more about the roles diet can play in promoting or preventing health problems. Good nutrition doesn't have to be complicated. Current research has shown that for most of us just a few simple dietary changes could make a very real difference in reducing the risk we face from many diseases.

Most of us, for example, consume too much dietary fat. Diets high in fat have been linked to increased rates of heart disease, kidney disease, breast cancer, prostate cancer and colorectal cancer.

Most dietary guidelines for better health advise lowering our consumption of fat to 30 percent or less of daily calories, down from the 40 percent of calories which is the current average in the United States.

That may seem difficult, but it really is only a one quarter reduction and simple dietary changes can help you reach that goal. Try switching to skim milk and other low-fat dairy products, using low-fat salad dressings, eating slightly smaller portions of meats with visible fat trimmed off, and limiting consumption of high fat items, such as nuts, potato chips, sour cream and margarine or butter.

Similar simple changes can help you get more fiber in your diet, another dietary recommendation by many nutrition experts. Studies show that most of us consume only half or less of the 20 to 30 grams of fiber which current research tells us is necessary for good health. Fiber has been shown to be important in lowering cholesterol rates, in reducing risk of heart disease, and in helping protect against colorectal cancer.

Adding more fiber doesn't have to be a difficult task. Because different types of fiber function differently in our bodies, experts recommend getting fiber from a variety of sources. Fresh fruits and vegetables are good fiber sources, as are products made with whole grains. Look for whole wheat bread, high fiber breakfast cereals and oat or wheat bran as good sources for extra daily fiber.

Many people seem to feel that good nutrition has to be complicated and means changing to a totally new diet. But the reality is that just learning to practice moderation and being more aware of important elements such as fat and fiber in your diet, can mean simple, easy, and effective changes for better nutrition and better health.

Local dietitians, either in private practice or associated with local hospitals, can be a good source for current dietary information. Check your phone book yellow pages under Dietitians to see if there is a local chapter of the American Dietetic Association, or call your local hospital for more information.

If you would like to receive a free booklet which explains how better nutrition can help lower your cancer risk, get a copy of "Dietary Guidelines to Lower Cancer Risk" by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope to American Institute for Cancer Research, Dept. NMI, Washington, D.C. 20069.

MOVIE REVIEWS Rochelle Flynn

Switching Channels

After a while, you really have to wonder what the point is. You tell the same story often enough and the sound track will whiny for you. Unfortunately, Switching Channels does a pretty good job keeping that dead horse down.

Not that it's a particularly bad movie. Actually, it is kind of energetic and there are a few laughs. But, at best, it is mediocre. What the filmmakers have done is take the fabulous remake of a very good movie and then refashion it into average entertainment. If this were any other business, someone in management would be pushing a broom.

Let's look at the history of the flick. Originally scripted as a play by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, it was filmed for the first time in 1930 as The Front Page and starred Pat O'Brien and Adolphe Menjou. Ten years later it was updated and rearranged so that the buddy flick concerned an editor and his ex-wife/star reporter, called His Girl Friday. Billy Wilder tried his hand at it in 1974, going back to the original male format, casting Walter Matthau and Jack Lemmon. Relying more on bad language than clever repartee, it was a pretty anemic version.

This time around, Turner plays a hot shot anchorwoman who, while on vacation, literally bumps into Christopher Reeve, a millionaire as taken with himself as Turner. It's lust at first sight for both of them, and when he pops the question she dives for the ring. But in order to marry the millionaire and move away, Turner has to give up the news job, which will hurt the ratings, which in turn will hurt ex-hubby Burt Reynolds. But Reynolds is still burning the bulb in his mini-cam for her anyway. Around this romantic triangle is the story of a convicted murderer who was set up for execution by a corrupt politician seeking gubernatorial office.

Turner is full of verve, and Reynolds turns in a comic performance as comfortable and warm as he did in the old days, before he started packing a celluloid gun. Reeve, on the other hand, is fine at the egocentric posturing and really does look amusing with his blonde locks, but he's just too stilted. His mannered acting is fine for Superman, but he's hard to swallow as a real person.

Another problem is Ned Beatty, whose red-faced, blustery performance of a rotten Chicago political candidate is completely over the top. His ranting performance is no better than you'd find on a community stage and certainly below expectations for him.

Even if you didn't know that this movie is based on a far superior film, it is still uneven and uninspired. This is one case where newer ain't necessarily better.

Burt Reynolds story

Ask Burt Reynolds how he got in "the business," and he'll tell you it's because he would jump out of windows. "Frontiers of Faith," a live TV program, was looking for someone to be thrown through a plate of glass, and Reynolds said, "I do that." And he did, for $125.

He got a lot of work in early TV shows, because whenever someone needed to be thrown down stairs or set on fire, it was "Get Reynolds, he does that." Eventually some of those characters needed to talk, which meant he picked up more and more speaking parts, eventually leaving the falls behind.

There were several TV series, including "Gunsmoke" and "Dan August," but Reynolds didn't strike box office paydirt until he starred in Deliverance in 1972. And Reynolds said that he got that part because director John Boorman saw him on a talk show. Why? Well, Boorman said he saw him in control of four people, which is what he would need for the role.

"While Deliverance" is frequently lauded as the best effort of his career, there have been a few turkeys. The one that springs readily to mind is At Long Last Love in which he plays a bored millionaire who, along with most of the rest of the cast, murder several perfectly fine Cole Porter songs. His singing ability didn't carry on to The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas, and one can safely speculate that we may never hear the mustachioed actor warble again in front of a camera.

While singing isn't his high point, comedy is, and audiences seem to find him the most appealing as characters who aren't packing a gun. Even he seems to discredit his latest tough-guy roles in Malone, Heat, and Stick, all released within the last couple of years. Reynolds said that he hopes his most recent film, Switching Channels does well, as it could help him to obtain better roles in the future. "If it doesn't do well, it can't hurt me, 'cause how bad can you hurt somebody who wasn't working?" Which means that he's already forgotten about those less than happy macho movies.

Reynolds' work as a director parallels his up and down career as an actor. On the low end is the racing car flick Stroker Ace, but then there is The End, an intriguing black comedy about a dying man who decides to kill himself. He, of course, starred in both.

But of all the parts, from the tomfoolery of Smokey and the Bandit to the savagery of his later cop capers to the gentle comedies, which is the most like Reynolds? Surprisingly, he says it's the commitment-shy divorcee in Starting Over.

While Reynolds' work has never been nominated for an Academy Award, he has received the Eastman Second Century Award, along with Stephen Spielberg, for encouraging and developing young talent. He also is the only actor to be named as "Favorite All-Around Male Entertainer and Favorite Motion Picture Actor" six times in a row by the People's Choice Awards. He may not like it, after the last reel has flicked off the screen and the lights are up, but it may be his still photography for which he's best remembered.

Still photography? Ask anyone who bought the April, 1972 issue of Cosmopolitan and unfolded the center pages. Staring out was a rather cool-looking Burt Reynolds.

Short takes

Moonstruck is everything a comedy should be and then some. It's upbeat, intelligent and pure unadulterated escapism that's reminiscent of the old Ernst Lubitsch movies. The comedy is sophisticated and the entanglements complex as an Italian-American family plays out a game of love, jealousy and marriage. And yes, Cher can do comedy. Rated PG. ***

The Manchurian Candidate is a strange, dark, bleakly funny movie first released in 1962. Set in a presidential election year, it has a weird, commie-bashing storyline with politics that so embarrassed Frank Sinatra he bought up the rights to it years ago, just recently relinquishing his hold on it. A paranoid thriller about a brain-washed assassin who could be set off at any time is as innovative and brilliant as anything produced in the last 25 years. Rated PG-13. ***

Ironweed is an uneven look at a man whose past intrudes on his present that is both burdened with heavy-handed imagery but nearly rescued by crystalline performances. Jack Nicholson and Meryl Streep are haunting as the Depression-era bums trying to survive both the elements and their own destructive tendencies. Although the acting is sterling, the movie suffers from an ambience so leaden and somber that the ending finally comes as a welcome release. Rated R. * 1/2

By ANTHONY MANCONI

Father Mark Hannon of St. Patrick's Church in Stoneham is a tall, handsome, young man. I am flattered to know that Fr. Mark loves to read Woodchips, but he told me that the puns, quips and jokes can stand considerable improvement. I'll certainly try to do better.

A cab driver was ushered in through the pearly gates ahead of three missionaries who were patiently waiting their turn. When the guard returned they asked, "Why did you allow a mere taxi driver to go in before we 'Men of the Cloth'?" "He was not an ordinary driver, he was a Boston cab driver and he scared the heck out of more people in one week than the three of you have in your lifetime!"

Shakespeare said it best, "All the world is a stage and we are the actors making our entrances and exits." Dear readers, we can however be sure of one thing, that it's useless to do any acting when we are alone.

My Aunt Nora from Wilmington said, "Woodchipper, you ought to be on the stage - the first one out of town!"

Happiness is often the result of being too busy to be miserable.

God can do wonders with a broken heart if you give Him 'all' the pieces.

Some 'Math Wizards' have asked me to write in a problem now and then, so here goes. If a hen and a half lays an egg and a half in a day and a half, how long will it take the hen to lay a dozen eggs? Send your correct answer to: Beachcomber, 68 Bosson St., Revere Beach, Mass. 02151. Please do not send your answers to the newspaper that you are reading. Every person sending the correct answer will be mentioned in this column.

Frank Mazzoni of Wilmington said, "It's like the contest I entered years ago. First prize was 'one week in Philadelphia,' and second prize was 'two weeks in Philadelphia.'" Who the heck wants to be in your column anyway?

CSF stands for Citizen's Scholarship Foundation in North Reading. The first contributor for this year's annual fund drive was Selectmen Chairman Gerald Brooks as he presented a check to high school students Catherine Owens and Julie O'Brien. Brad Jones and Kathy Tobin of CSF were present.

America is rich in natural resources, but the most important of all resources is the youth who will take over the reins of government.

Benjamin Franklin said it best, "Men can steal my gold, silver, and all the material goods that I possess but they cannot take away from me my education."

Lee Ward asked me, "Woodchipper, did you go to a high school?" "Not really Lee," I answered, "it had only two floors."

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Washburn who celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary, and Howard and Verna McQuesten of North Reading, who recently observed their 50th wedding anniversary. Woodchips is proud of you.

My Uncle John Shea, who is over 80 years old, told me that he is going to marry a 22-year-old woman. "Uncle John," I exclaimed, "why in the world did a young woman like that consent to marry you?" "It's love I guess," he replied, "and then again it may be that I told her I was 95-years-old."

If you are faint-hearted, don't, under any circumstances, look under the hood of your car. The maze of wires, cables, rods, valves and solenoids will leave you mesmerized. You will generally see a motor that's an 'engineer's dream and a mechanic's nightmare.' So, it takes automotive experts to untangle the web of wires and cables to get the car back in tip-top shape.

Some who wear the badge of automotive service excellence are: Mike Peters, Warren Pearce and Greg Pearce of Paramount Auto in North Reading; Buddy Farren and his two handsome sons Robert and Neil; Phil Kehoe, Beach Gen.; John MacCurtin of Wilmington; Oscar Jacobson and his sons Roy and Donald of Stoneham Custom Auto; along with Vinnie Conte, Al Kapamagian and Joseph Prochilo (whose son Thomas is a Navy fighter pilot).

I asked Bob Giguere what I could do for a leaking radiator. Bob smiled and said, "put a pan under it."

Rowan Fitzgerald went to Florida in January. The stewardess gave him a couple of sticks of gum. "It's to prevent unpleasant pressure in your ears during take-off and landing," she told Rowan. When the plane landed in Miami, Rowan said to the stewardess, "please help me take this darn gum out of my ears, it hasn't done me a bit of good anyway."

Two beautiful young ladies from North Reading were given awards for their dedicated service to the A.W. Chesterton Company of Stoneham. Edward O'Hare, personnel manager, presented a plaque to Jean Boccelli, acknowledging 10 years of outstanding service, and Kim Bauer Taylor was cited for five years of exemplary service.

Personality winners are:

Barbara Leedham and her handsome son Paul, whose sport is fishing; Janice Burke, a tall, blonde, blue eyed beauty with a degree in Criminal Justice from North Shore Community College; Carmen Mastrogianni, CPA Lynnfield; Mary Amato, Kelly Carr and Rachel Fabiano of Stoneham; Boston Globe's all scholastic volleyball team; Nancy Clements, Stephen Kelly, Margaret Mantos, Thomas Keough, Beverly Nigro, and Wilda Grotjohan, all Baybank personnel; Larry Ahern, Lee Preble, Olin Brown, Dotty O'Neill and Dave Smith of Stoneham.

I met Peter Hanson of Woburn who told me his wife Mary is a secretary at the Harvard Business School. Peter and Mary are waiting for a blessed event (their first child). Woodchips is happy for both of these wonderful new readers.

Doug and Joanne Joyce of Tewksbury are also new readers. Doug, an Air Force veteran, is now a 'king of the road,' driving a massive 18-wheeler, and Joanne is a secretary at DeMoulas headquarters in Tewksbury.

A woman called the Woburn Police saying that some boys were trying to drill a hole in a wooden fence at a nudist colony. Dispatcher Richie Sweeney said, "Thank you for calling, I'll send Officer Bob Giguere to 'look into it!'" There's no problem anyway, for the sign on the nudist camp gate says "Clothed for the Winter - Bare with us in the Spring!"

I couldn't attend a nudist wedding last summer, I didn't have a thing to wear.

My first two orders as a vacuum cleaner salesman years ago were, "Get out and stay out."

MDC Capt. Dan Gately of Woburn is now in charge of the Charles River Basin near the Museum of Science. He called me last week and said, "Woodchipper, if you're ever down this way 'drop in'." Gee Capt., I hope you don't mean the river!

When the inventor of the 'door knocker' was informed that he was nominated for the 'no bell' prize he shouted, "Aw, who gives a rap?"

The 'Pest of the Month of March' is Dennis Tully. When he sings he has trouble staying on key. He sang 'Danny Boy' at a St. Patrick's Day party last year and a woman broke out in tears. Everyone wondered why because Dennis hit more than a few sour notes. We found out later the woman was Mrs. Kathleen Murphy, Dennis' singing teacher.

Nutrition series at Winchester Hospital

Will eating a meal high in carbohydrates the night before a baseball game improve a player's performance? Is the salad bar the best choice for persons on a diet?

Learn the answers to these questions and many more at Winchester Hospital's nutrition series. The following one-night courses are part of a four-class series taught by a registered dietitian at Winchester Hospital. The courses will be held at Winchester High School, 80 Skillings Road.

Sports Nutrition - Nutrition for athletes during training and competition will be discussed March 31, 7 to 9 p.m., in Room 208.

Nutrition and Health - Issues on women's health and special needs of the elderly will be discussed April 7 from 7 to 9 p.m., in Room 208.

Eating Out - Healthy eating while dining outside the home, salad bar awareness, choosing from a menu, and how to handle eating at a friend's and entertaining at home will be discussed April 14 from 7 to 9 p.m. in Room 202.

CAUTION: Before deciding on a diamond it is imperative that you inspect the stone very carefully under 10X magnification in order to see with your own eyes the nature and extent of internal imperfections. A heavily imperfect diamond not only lacks brilliance & beauty, it is not a wise investment. Also, you'll want to avoid diamonds that are dark in color. Be aware of those who advertise inferior diamonds at low prices as bait to lure you in. Come to Diamond Imports and you will be educated to make the intelligent choice. "RED SAILS IN THE SUNSET" is the delightful view you'll see from our 2 plus BR contemporary nestled on a beautiful waterfront lot overlooking Canobie Lake. Among other features, the house boasts a European center isle cooktop, custom Cherry cabinets w/desk and hutch, central vac, border rugs, plaster walls, Kohler fixtures (some 24k gold plated) And if that's not enough, he wrapped it all around in a beautiful covered porch. Ladies and gentlemen, we will be proud to help you make this gracious home yours.

UNIQUE WATERFRONT CONTEMPORARY impeccably executed by a builder who takes immense pride in his work! No less than 5 pair of wooden sliders in this newly constructed home provide a panoramic view of lovely Canobie Lake. (Imagine the sunsets!) ## DOG CATCHER

Passaro describes as "an excellent job" at what involves considerably more than 40 hours a week. Seaver is classed by the town as a part-time employee.

A proposal before the Stoneham Finance Board would raise Seaver's salary to $13,465 a year, which would reportedly make his pay commensurate with the lowest-paid of town employees.

Research into the salaries for dog officers in four nearby communities (Wakefield, Winchester, Woburn and Saugus) reveals an average salary of $22,000 for a work week which ranges from 35 to 40 hours.

The four other communities also supply either a back-up dog officer for off-duty hours, or overtime pay, or both.

Stoneham provides neither, Seaver said.

Seaver added that he is on call by the police for serious dog complaints 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Telephone calls and dog complaints from residents may also come seven days a week - occurring as early as six a.m., as late as midnight.

His time spent in court and at Selectmen's meetings, moreover, involves no compensation.

As for his current inventory of equipment, Seaver said it includes a Ford LTD sedan, officially valued as "Junk," a six-foot leather leash with frayed stitches, one 16-inch choke collar and one six-foot pole with a noose, with a combined value of $65.

A 1935 graduate of Stoneham High School, Seaver has retired from a 38-year career in transportation. He said he is and always has been a genuine dog lover, and currently owns two beautifully groomed "sweethearts": Doberman Pinschers Sarah and Heidi. Seaver's wife, Mary, whose spacious and spotless house bears absolutely no trace or hair of dog, may tolerate and respect the Dobermans, but she said she is nonetheless unenthusiastic about having them in her living room.

"It's too bad," she said with a frank twinkle, "that they can't be house pets for him."

"But he can always go down cellar for a visit."

Despite, or perhaps because of his obvious love for dogs, George Seaver said he cannot understand the attitudes of owners who let their dogs run loose. He also wonders where all the licensed dogs have gone.

"If you speak to someone about his dog being loose," Seaver said, "he thinks the animal, shouldn't be tied up - but the real issue is safety, for adults, children, and for the animal itself."

"With the high volume of traffic and speed in this area, it's very easy for a dog to get hit - and the animals which have been hit by cars in Stoneham have had to be destroyed."

Seaver said the inclination to let one's dog run free - despite the leash law - cuts across all social and cultural lines, with the offending owners coming from all kinds of neighborhoods.

"And there are only about 550 licensed dogs in the town of Stoneham. Yet there are probably 3,000 dogs in town," he added, including everything from pampered Lhasa apso lap dogs to unlicensed pit bulls which can present a very serious danger to police who may not know of their presence. Seaver said he tries to keep abreast of the location of unlicensed attack dogs - and alerts the police accordingly.

Despite receiving a salary described by one Middlesex County official as "straight out of the dark ages," and though he said he seeks only equity in an often thankless and sometimes extremely dangerous job - Seaver retains a sense of humor. That humor emerges whether he relates the availability of HMOs (Health Maintenance Organizations) which offer medical insurance plans for dogs and cats - or, finally, recounts the story of the Great Danish invasion:

Seaver said he received a call from a Norval Avenue resident reporting that two Great Danes would not let her neighbor get out of a swimming pool to go to a wedding:

"I drove up - but they wouldn't let me out of the car, either. Every time I started out they'd charge down the driveway. So I shouted to the neighbor to call for a police backup. The first officer who showed up wanted to pull his gun on them, because these dogs were huge."

But another officer arrived with a lasso, and hopes of roping the animals. But no one could get near them.

Soon the Stoneham contingent was joined by dog officers from Wakefield and the Metropolitan Police, Seaver said, and a man across the street emerged from his house, wielding a hatchet, and shouting: "If they (the dogs) come across here I'll chop their heads off."

"It turns out," Seaver added, "that the dogs' owners had gone away for the weekend, and their caretaker had fed them and forgotten to close the gate."

How did they solve the problem?

Seaver said his wife Mary finally located the caretaker and "gave him a piece of her mind," so he showed up in a during the off-season, will be the difference.

AS FOR me, I may be looking forward to baseball, but I'm truly looking forward to getting back down to Newport, R.I., this summer to do some more sailing with my great and good buddies, Tony Resta and Mark Smith...Speaking of Mark Smith, have you been catching his TV commercials lately?

IF YOU'RE female and you haven't been catching Mark Smith in his TV commercials, you might be interested in catching a couple of fashion shows. They are being sponsored by a clothing design company by the name of Cepage, and they'll be taking place on March 22, noon till 2 p.m., at the Kernwood Restaurant, in Wakefield, and on March 23, from 1:30 p.m. till 3 p.m., at the Porthole Pub, in Lynn. According to the sponsors, the shows will take place during the restaurants' normal luncheon hours, and no reservations are required. I've been told the designs are all one-of-a-kind, handpainted and appliqued, and make terrific cruise wear.

ONE FINAL note: this columnist was surprised by the amount of response to last week's column on my former classmate (and let's not forget girlfriend!) Diane Venora, who convertible, coaxed the dogs into the car, "and when he drove off, you couldn't see the driver, because the dogs were so big."

No shots were fired, no blood was shed, and the woman who had been trapped in her pool was freed, after all, George said - though she was too late to make it to the wedding.

"At least it wasn't her own," Seaver added.

is making quite a splash in Hollywood and on Broadway at the moment, for those of you who missed the column, I recommend that you don't miss Diane in "Ironweed," the latest Jack Nicholson/Meryl Streep film project. Diane plays Nicholson's daughter in the film.

Bike pride, Boat shop and fantasies

ALIEN ABDUCTIONS AND OTHER FANTASIES

Are extraterrestrials abducting human beings and subjecting them to terrifying examinations? Can an individual, through the techniques of hypnosis and past-life regression, recall alien visitations or previous lives? Does the mind have a "life force" of its own enabling it to exist separate from the body? Judging by the well-stocked display cases in most bookstores and bold headlines in supermarket tabloids, it is not hard to conclude that these and other strange phenomena are indeed occurring on a regular basis.

Skeptics, however, remain unconvinced. Writing in the Winter 1987/88 issue of the "Skeptical Inquirer," published by the Committee for the Scientific Investigation of Claims of the Paranormal (not within the range of normal experience), scientists and investigators have taken a hard look at some of the more startling claims, and found the evidence lacking.

In his article, "The Aliens Among Us," psychologist

Coming Attractions

By William Pacino

Robert Baker of the University of Kentucky refutes stories of humans abducted by extraterrestrials, claiming the phenomena of confabulation (replacing fact with fantasy in memory), fantasy-prone personalities, the power of suggestion to alien stories, the roles of hypnagogic (when falling asleep) and hypnopompic (when waking up) hallucinations account for abduction fantasies.

For more information, or a subscription to "Skeptical Inquirer," call (716) 834-3222, or write, Skeptical Inquirer, Central Park Station, Box 229, Buffalo, New York 14215.

JOIN THE SEAPORT NAVY

The Boston Boat Shop will be opening this winter on Pier No. 3 in the Charlestown Navy Yard as a working boatyard and a training facility. The Boston Boat Shop is the focus of New England Historic Seaport's small boat education and boat building program that produced the wooden ship "Spirit of Massachusetts."

Students at the Boston Boat Shop will learn skills necessary to build, maintain, and operate a variety of wooden boats, power and sail, from nine-foot rowing boats to a 125-foot schooner.

The Boat Shop classes are another step towards the ultimate goal of creating a complete seaport in the Charlestown Navy Yard. This would include classes in such topics as navigation, ship handling, and many other marine-oriented subjects.

For more information on the Boston Boat Shop, call Henry Dormitzer or Robin Travers at 242-1414. For more information on the New England Historic Seaport or to join or contribute to the Seaport, call 242-1414.

the occasion to speak about values and ethics in terms of designer clothes and labels.

The Builder's Club is a "brother" club to Woburn High's Key Club which is sponsored by Woburn Kiwanis. All of the organizations are based on the principles of helping to develop academic success, school citizenship and community involvement.

Penguins have been recently sighted in North Reading — waddling through the corridors at the Hood School where students ended their six-week study of birds with a "Penguin Parade."

Students and teachers read "Mr. Popper's Penguins" and art teacher Nancy Goddard planned penguin projects for each grade. The fourth graders — under the direction of Marie Reel — did research and wrote stories, articles and poems which they shared with the entire school.

The project really took off — even though the penguins never did.

Scholarship application

High school students who are interested in applying for $1,000 college scholarships should request applications by March 16, 1988 from Educational Communications Scholarship Foundation, 721 N. McKinley Road, Lake Forest, Illinois 60045.

To receive an application, students should send a note stating their name, address, city, state and zip code.

Sixty-five winners will be selected on the basis of academic performance, involvement in extracurricular activities and need for financial aid.

OLYMPIC PRIDE BIKE RIDE

Mark down Sunday, May 22 on your calendar as the day Massachusetts residents will show their Olympic Pride by bicycling 88 miles for our '88 Olympic Team.

In a first ever bike ride from Springfield to Boston, more than 1,500 Olympic supporters are expected to help raise money for U.S. athletes competing in Seoul, South Korea.

Bob Brest Auto World and Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Massachusetts, sponsors of the event, are inviting everyone with Olympic Spirit to bicycle 10, 25, 50 or even the entire 88-mile stretch to support our athletes.

Each cyclist is asked to pledge $1 per mile covered. This is a controlled pace event and not a race. Access will be limited to four starting points and hard shell helmets are required. Attractive T-shirts will be presented to the first 1,000 registrants.

The event will begin at 8 a.m. at the Springfield Newspapers in Springfield and end at 4:30 p.m. at the Hyatt Regency in Cambridge.

For more information, call 956-3320.

CHILD'S VIEW OF BIRDS

The Museum of Comparative Zoology in Cambridge will continue its spring after-school classes with "A Child's View of Birds" beginning Wednesday, March 23 and Thursday, March 24.

Learn about feathers, flight, feeding and fledglings using the Museum's extensive collections; if weather permits, there'll be outdoor explorations as well! The seven-week program will be held from 3:30 to 4:45 p.m. on Wednesdays (6-8 year olds) and Thursdays (9-11 year olds).

Advance registration and payment is required. For more information call 495-2341 between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m.

From outerspace to the Navy Yard, from Springfield to Boston, COMING ATTRACTIONS moves in a lot of directions to find events of interest to all. But we can't be everywhere, and could use your help in separating the fact from fantasy. If you know of something, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it.

School notes

by phyllis nissen

"Grandpals" are student and senior citizen penpals involved in a project which was so successful last year among the fifth and sixth graders at Winchester's Lynch Elementary School that it's back for a rerun with some new faces.

Each student writes a letter to an assigned senior, including a picture as an "introduction by mail." Later, there is a follow-up letter and an invitation to the senior to attend a brown-bag luncheon at the school where face-to-face contacts will hopefully cement ongoing relationships.

Many kids live far from their grandparents, and many seniors don't have the opportunity to see their grandchildren as much as they'd like — so the program offers all parties an opportunity to become grand pals.

Video letters — the newest form of penpal exchanges — are being sent out by students in Wilmington High's new video elective class to high school students in Indiana and Pennsylvania.

Wilmington's video crew is the result of high school photography teacher Suzette Hall's Horace Mann grant; and after only one semester, the kids are using their expertise so that their teachers can use videos as a teaching tool. The camera crew has taped English and French classes doing skits, a theater arts class mock press conference, and a business class production titled "Office of the '90s."

According to teachers, the videos not only help the students in their self-evaluations but help them to work harder. After all, when you're captured on tape, you're captured on tape.

"The Changing World of the Young" — From the '60s to Today" was the topic for the new monthly speakers' program sponsored by the Builder's Club at Woburn's Joyce Junior High.
